Kamloops Voters To-night To Hear Prime Minister

Premier King Goes to That City After Addressing in Vancouver the Largest Indoor Meeting of His Campaign Thus Far; Estimated 9,000 in Audience; Great Interest in His Tour Interpreted to Point to Liberal Victory July 28.

Vancouver, July 9.—His face turned once more toward the east, Premier King left Vancouver this morning, bound for Kamloops, where his schedule calls for a meeting to-night. The Kamloops meeting will be the last of his election campaign tour in British Columbia. To-morrow Premier King will enter Alberta, where in Edmonton he will address a meeting Thursday evening.

On his way back to Ontario, the Prime Minister will spend two days in the constituency of Prince Albert, Sask., where he is a candidate for the Commons.

Mr. King's journey to Kamloops today was started after the greatest indoor meeting of his campaign thus far—and his tour has extended from coast to coast. The audience was estimated at 9,000.

ON FLOOR AND IN GALLERIES

The platform and floor of that part of the Arena which was used were filled, and the crowd rose tier on tier in the two high galleries at the sides and rear of the rink. On the platform were gathered many persons prominent in Liberal political ranks here. The speech was broadcast from the platform.

The gathering of so great a throng and the great ovations given Premier King at the beginning and conclusion of his address, together with the attentive hearing accorded him throughout his remarks, left no doubt of the keen interest Vancouver electors are taking in the Federal election and were interpreted as an unmistakable indication of a heavy Liberal vote on July 28.

In addition to Premier King, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Immigration; T. D. Pattullo, M.P.P., British Columbia Liberal leader, and Wilfred Hanbury, Liberal candidate in Vancouver-Burrard, addressed the meeting.

TRADE WITH ORIENT

New ground was broken by Mr. King when, in discussing trade matters he asserted that, in the event of his government being returned to power, there would be an immediate investigation into the question of securing improved means of communication between Canada and the Orient.

He referred to the handicap which was suffered by Canadian business men in communicating with the Orient because messages must be routed through the United States. Why, he asked, should there not be wireless telephone communication between Canada and Tokio?

GASOLINE WAR DECLARED FIGHT TO A FINISH

San Francisco, July 9.—While gasoline prices ranged from eight to fourteen cents a gallon on the Pacific Coast of the United States to-day, rumors indicated the present price slashing was a fight to a finish, with possible extermination of weaker companies.

Tacoma motorists were buying gasoline at eight cents, at Los Angeles it sold at ten cents and at Seattle at eleven to thirteen cents, with similar prices here. It was slightly higher at other points.

Oil company officials admitted the present gasoline war was the most serious crisis ever faced by distributors of gasoline in California.

Three Men and Mail Are Taken Off Plane By Ship When It Alights On Sea

Jean Mermoz and Two Companions Defeated by Oil Leak When Attempting First South America-Africa Flight With Mail Destined for France; Mail Transferred to Dispatch Steamer to Continue Voyage.

Canadian Press

Dakar, Senegal, July 9.—Jean Mermoz, noted French airman, on the first west to east transatlantic air mail flight between South America and Africa, was forced to bring his plane down on the sea when well over half way across today.

He and his two companions, Leopold Gimme, radio operator, and Jean D'Abry, navigator, were rescued and the 600 pounds of air mail they had taken aboard on leaving Natal, Brazil, yesterday, were saved.

Mermoz, three hours earlier, had discovered an oil leak which apparently was not serious, but two hours before the plane came down the oil pressure dropped alarmingly, and the pilot sent a wireless message that he was heading toward the dispatch boat Phocee, one of several vessels patrolling the route in case of emergency.

MAIL TRANSFERRED

The Phocee, being informed of the plane's trouble, started to the rescue and met the machine. She stood by and took aboard the three men and the mail. The mail was to be transferred to another dispatch vessel and carried at full speed to Africa for relay by plane to Paris.

The Mermoz plane came down at seven degree north latitude and twenty-four degrees west longitude, about 750 miles southwest of Dakar, about 650 miles southwest of Dakar.

It was at 7.45 a.m. French meridian time (11.45 last night Victoria time) that Mermoz first reported the loss of oil. He did not explain the nature of the leak and apparently was confident it would not interfere seriously with his plane's journey. He had enough gasoline to fly twelve hours more and hoped to reach Dakar by 5 o'clock in the evening.

IN AIR FOURTEEN HOURS

The plane alighted at 10.20 a.m. after it had been in the air fourteen hours, and was well advanced on the last half of its transatlantic voyage. The weather was good and there was little wind.

BUTTER PRICE INQUIRY NOW IS SUGGESTED

Liberal Candidate in Temiscouata, Que., Asks Labor Minister to Take Action

Newspaper Says Wholesalers Deprive Farmers of Legitimate Profits

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 9.—Charges that a combine exists among certain produce companies with a view to depressing the price of butter to the producers may be ventilated under the Combines Investigation Act, at least in one section of Canada, if the representations of Jean Francois Pouliot, former Liberal member of Parliament for Temiscouta, Que., and a candidate in this election, are prosecuted to their ultimate stages. Mr. Pouliot, in a communication to Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, enclosed a copy of a newspaper circulating in his constituency wherein the assertion is made that wholesale dealers "keep market prices low when they purchase butter and accumulate it in cold storage for some time, selling it at an exorbitant price to the consumers later.

They thus deprive the farmers of their legitimate profits, says Mr. Pouliot.

ACTION URGED

The former member asks the minister to intervene under the Combines Investigation Act.

This action by Mr. Pouliot follows announcement by Premier King at Moose Jaw, Sask., some days ago, that it had been represented to him western cream producers were being given low prices for their product, on the pretext, it was alleged, that New Zealand butter was depressing the domestic market. The Prime Minister said New Zealand butter imports were being employed by the creamery companies "as a pretext to cloak their operations." He urged an investigation under the act be sought.

No formal request had been received by the registrar up to to-day.

Island Princess Is Bought By Matson For Islands Ferry

Vessel Being Reconstructed and Re-engined for Salt Spring-Saanich Ferry Route at Cost of Above $35,000; Will Carry Eighteen Cars and Enter Service in Five Weeks.

The steamer Island Princess has been purchased by J. S. H. Matson and is being reconstructed for the ferry service between Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Island, and Swartz Bay, North Saanich. She will replace the Central II which was brought from Seattle for the service and was to have been renamed the Cy Peck. The Central II was found unsuitable for the run and another vessel was secured.

The Island Princess was purchased by Mr. Matson from Capt. W. E. Gardner, who recently acquired the vessel from the B.C. Coast Service of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

LARGE INVESTMENT

The hull of the Island Princess has been given a thorough inspection by Lloyd's surveyors, and has been accorded a rating of "A1." Extensive reconstruction is in progress to fit the vessel for her new service and between $35,000 and $40,000 will be expended before the vessel is in readiness to enter the Salt Spring Island ferry service, and meets the requirements of Mr. Matson.

The hull is being widened at the Point Hope Marine Railway, where sponsons two feet wide will be built into each side to give a clear deck width of twenty-seven feet six inches, the length of the vessel being 120 feet. The Princess will be able to handle eighteen cars at a time, with three abreast amidships.

NEW MACHINERY

The steam engine and boilers have been removed and will be replaced with a 220 horsepower diesel engine, expected to give an average speed of nine knots. The reconstruction is expected to be completed within five weeks.

AUSTRALIANS FACING HEAVY NEW TAXATION

New Gasoline Tax Six Cents; Tobacco and Movie Films Are to Pay

Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters'

Canberra, Aus., July 9.—A high protective wall will be erected around Australia and drastic increases will be made in internal revenue scales, in an endeavor to recover the substantial loss shown in the budget statement to-day.

TAX INCREASES

Features of the new customs increases are additional levies of six cents a gallon on gasoline, twelve cents a pound on tobacco, twenty-four cents a pound on cigarettes, about $2.50 a pound on cigars, two cents a foot on moving picture films, $5.00 a ton on newsprint and four cents a gallon on beer.

TO ISSUE NEW DIRECTORY OF B.C. PRODUCTS

Manufacturers All Over Province Receive Questionnaires From Industrial Department

Will Reflect Extraordinary Increase in Number of Provincial Undertakings

Hundred of manufacturers all over the Province have just received questionnaires from the Department of Industries which are to be filled in for use in the 1930 edition of the Directory of Products manufactured by British Columbia industries. Six editions of the directory have been published in the past, the last one in 1927, but the forthcoming booklet will be far more complete than any of its predecessors to keep up with the phenomenal increase in the number of provincial industries during the last few years.

The directory shows the variety of the product, the name of the manufacturer and the trade name or brand of the particular article. Copies are sent to chambers of commerce all over the continent and to all purchasing agents and others who might be buying British Columbia goods. In this way it serves as a valuable source of information and advertising medium. The questionnaires must be returned to the department as soon as possible so that the directory may go to press without delay.

It is never possible to make the booklet altogether complete as many producers omit to furnish the data required, but it is hoped that on this occasion the percentage of defaulters will be low.

The different editions reflect with remarkable accuracy the increasing variety of provincial undertakings, especially during the last decade. It has been estimated that there were not more than fifty manufactured articles produced in British Columbia before the war, while the present figure is not far short of 2,000.

PRAIRIES SUFFERING DURING HEAT WAVE

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, July 9.—The prairies continued to swelter to-day in a heat wave which had taken a toll of four lives within the last twenty-four hours. Three Manitobans who sought to escape from the blistering sun of Tuesday by bathing, were drowned. At Moose Jaw, Mrs. Alfred Statham collapsed and died as thermometers there moved up to the 97 mark.

Forecast for decidedly warm weather faced the people of both Saskatchewan and Manitoba to-day. "Possibly a few local thunderstorms" were promised by the meteorological bureau as a temporary relief in some sections of the provinces. For Alberta, which had the high mark heat city Tuesday when Medicine Hat experienced a maximum thermometer reading of 96, continued "fair and warm" was forecast to-day.

Although Winnipeg was well down in the list of high-thermometer cities of the prairies Tuesday, with readings ranging between 86 and 89, intense humidity made the heat almost insufferable. Thousands flocked to the beaches and parks. A pair of mate style setters shook off Dame Custom, donned short trousers and went their merry way through the downtown district as their less courageous and perspiring brothers gazed in amusement and possibly admiration.

RESCUER DROWNED

All of Manitoba's three drowning victims were youths, two of them Boy Scouts who lost their lives at a summer camp on the shore of Lake Winnipeg. Scout John Sutton, twelve, of Winnipeg, went down in a valiant attempt to save eleven-year-old Gerald Dickson, his chum, of St. Boniface. Young Dickson presumably suffered a cramp while bathing.

At Brandon, Mark Brown, nineteen, tried wading in a stream near his home in an effort to escape the heat and it cost his life. He apparently slipped into a hole.

RANCHER WINS THE ESTATES OF EGMONT EARL

British Court Confirms Claim of F. T. Perceval, Former Albertan

London, July 9.—Mr. Justice Eve in the Chancery Division of the Supreme Court to-day, confirmed the claim of Frederick Trevelyan Perceval, former Alberta rancher, to the title and estates of the Earldom of Egmont.

The judge confirmed the decision made four weeks ago by the master of the Chancery Court, P. W. Vandler, who found the claims of Robert Pownall, retired politician, and James William Perceval, baker, should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Eve granted a declaration that the "rancher earl" was entitled to the moneys in the hands of the trustees, "subject to trusts of settlements," and that the trustees should make a vesting charge in favor of Perceval.

Wins Test Vote on Finance Bill in British Commons By Narrow Majority

Canadian Press

London, July 9.—By a majority of only three votes, the MacDonald government to-day scraped through a division on the finance bill which had been regarded as critical.

A Liberal amendment to the finance bill which had been considered might cause the downfall of the Labor government was rejected in the Commons by 278 votes to 275.

The MacDonald ministry was saved by four Liberals who voted for it.

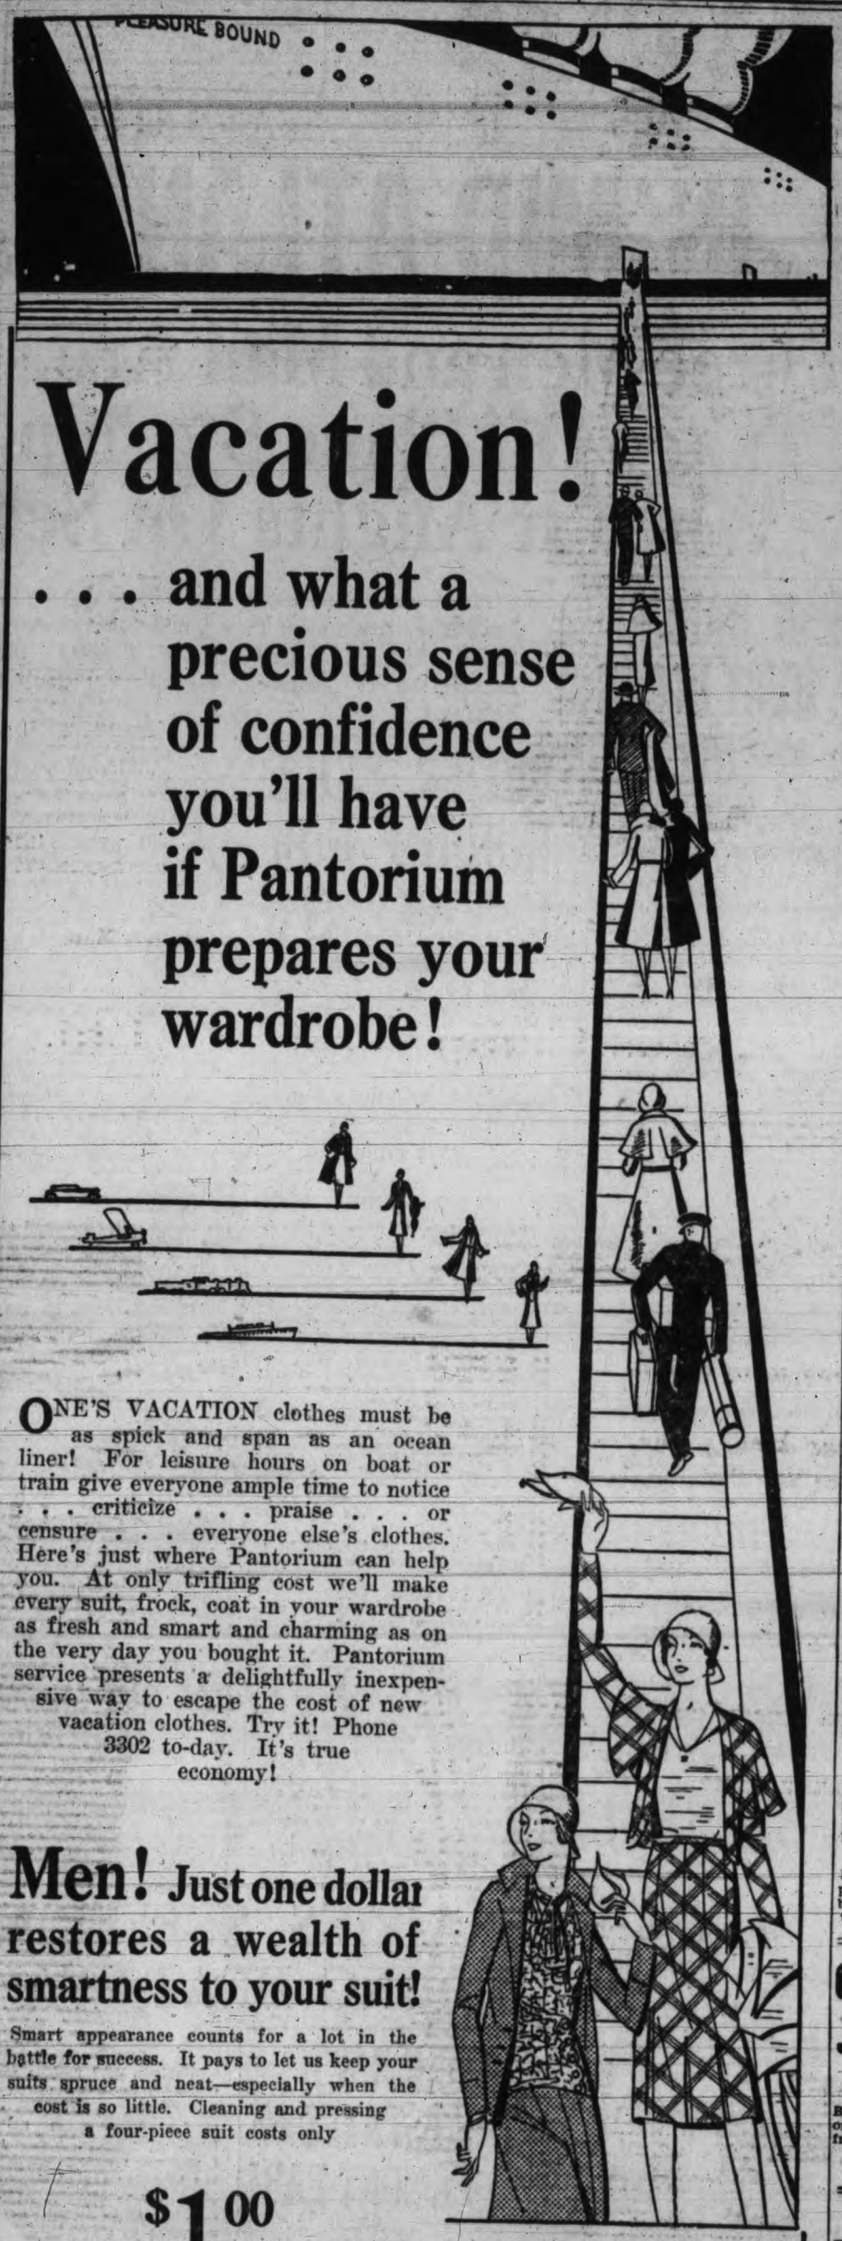

A majority of the Liberals, supported by an exceptional number of Conservatives, voted for the Liberal amendment, by which it was proposed no income tax should be placed on profits which could be proved to have been spent on modernization or improvement of plants and machinery.

COMFORTABLE LEAD

On an earlier amendment moved by the Liberal member Major Fathan and supported by Conservatives, proposing the rate of income tax on company reserves invested in plant, machinery, or buildings should be at the rate of four shillings instead of four and six pence, the government had a comfortable majority of 122.

Australia will adopt the sales tax on the Canadian plan, only certain primary products and foodstuffs being exempt. The income tax is increased by from ten to sixteen per cent. Postage is increased from three to four cents. A primary customs duty of 2½ per cent will be levied on all import.

WOOL PRICES DOWN

The increases announced to-day are in addition to the various increases in customs tariffs effected within the last few months in an endeavor to overcome Australia's great economic depression, which was hastened by the big slump in world prices of wool, the greatest product of the country.

Temporary financial accommodation had been arranged to meet overseas commitments, but a permanent solution of Australia's financial position in the London market must be found by securing another $150,000,000 on a long term loan overseas very soon, the Prime Minister declared.

The financial depression, the Prime Minister went on, was due to a collapse of commodity values and the cessation of loan receipts from overseas.

BANK POOL

During the last financial year £27,000,000 in gold had been transferred, Premier Scullin said. It might be necessary, in order to ensure future government requirements in London being met, to invite trading banks to pool their external exchange and give the commonwealth and state government first call on their London funds.

"The government is exploring every avenue of economy in administration," Premier Scullin said. He instanced the severe cut in expenditures for defence purposes and a large number of similar steps. Defence expenditure had been reduced by $2,500,000.

LOAN OUTLAYS

"Expenditure on loans has been almost halved, and can now be provided almost wholly by the people of Australia," the Prime Minister declared.

The whole aim in increasing tariff rates, he explained, was to foster the development of Australia's primary and secondary industries.

AGED CARDINAL DIED TO-DAY IN VATICAN CITY

His services to the church began with his ordination to the priesthood in 1860. For more than half a century thereafter Cardinal Vannutelli's missions took him to many countries. He became dean of the Sacred College in 1921 on the death of James Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.

TREATY NEGOTIATIONS

The venerable cardinal, ever an apostle of peace and good-will, is said to have been responsible for the inauguration of the negotiations looking toward a settlement of the age-old Roman question during the early years of the regime of Premier Mussolini.

In 1923, for the first time since the Pope lost his temporal power in Rome, the head of the Italian government had a private talk with the dean of the Sacred College, Cardinal Vannutelli.

Premier Mussolini was on a visit to the province of Casentino and stopped at Malsoleo, where there is a monastery. Cardinal Vannutelli was a guest there and Premier Mussolini went to pay homage to him. Afterward the two had a private talk of more than half an hour. Although the subject of their conversation was not made public, it was the general belief the discussion included possible efforts to settle the historic controversy.

BROTHER WAS CARDINAL

Cardinal Vannutelli was born December 5, 1836, at Genazzano, Italy, in the diocese of Palestrina, of a noble family that had been conspicuous in that diocese. His brother, Serafino Vannutelli, also was a cardinal and Dean of the Sacred College at the time of his death in December, 1915. The grandfather of the two cardinals was Count Vannutelli, who was grand-master of the household of Napoleon's sister, Princess Pauline Borghese, and afterward to her mother, Letitia Bonaparte.

KAMLOOPS VOTERS TO-NIGHT TO HEAR PRIME MINISTER

In connection with meeting the unemployed problem in Western Canada, Mr. King emphasized the importance of an early start on the construction of a railway outlet from the Peace River district.

GREAT GREETING

When Premier King arose to address the meeting it was some time before he could start because of the prolonged ovation accorded him. When the cheers and applause had died down he said:

"This is the largest gathering I have had the pleasure of witnessing since the opening of the campaign."

He did not regard the size of the crowd as a personal tribute to himself. He believed those present had come prompted by an earnest desire to hear the political issues of the day discussed.

UNITY IS GOAL

Canada and the Empire, and prosperity in both—these had been the aims of the present administration, Mr. King said. He told how, at the time he was forming his first government, he had attempted to secure cabinet representation from every province so all parts of the country would have a voice in government affairs.

"I have said the great object of the administration from the outset, was the Unity of Canada," went on Mr. King. He believed amicable association of the provinces with the Dominion was most important. Therefore, his government had from the outset worked to remove any causes of dissatisfaction on the part of the provinces.

It had found various causes of unrest in different provinces, and in British Columbia there was dissatisfaction because lands in the Railway Belt and the Peace River Block were withheld. The government had decided to remedy this, just as it had made up its mind to satisfy the claims of the Maritime Provinces, and also to return the natural resources to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

LANDS AND SUBSIDY

Not only was British Columbia receiving back its lands, Mr. King asserted, but the Pacific Coast Province would also retain the annual subsidy of $100,000.

EXPLAINS REMARK

Mr. King here made reference to his "five-cent" remark in the House of Commons. The remark had been made in the course of a speech when he was being much interrupted by a member from British Columbia. He explained the connection between the remark and the rest of his speech, and declared that "my remark had no reference whatever to the broad question of unemployment."

The attitude of the Federal government was that if a province was unable to cope with unemployment, and so reported, Federal assistance would be given. "But," added Mr. King, "I have not received from the government of British Columbia any request for assistance."

Indeed, he added, as far as he was aware the British Columbia government had not itself made any contribution to assist in meeting the unemployment situation.

RECORD OF GOVERNMENT

Mr. King turned to a review of the government's record. There had been seven surpluses in the eight and a half years his government had been in office.

The Conservatives were asserting they had spent millions for unemployment during their period in office. That was a sad commentary on conditions prevailing under the Conservative government, remarked Mr. King.

TAX REDUCTIONS

Tax reductions were then spoken of by the Prime Minister. He told of income tax reductions during his period of office. The sales tax had been cut from six to one per cent, nearly all the "nuisance taxes" had been abolished, and certain tariffs had been cut down.

"Our first great fight in parliament, connected with a budget, was when we decided to lower the cost of instruments of production," said Mr. King.

EMPLOYMENT QUESTION

Then he turned directly to the question of unemployment. He wanted to take up this question from the point of view of the unemployed man, he said. There were two kinds of unemployment—world unemployment and local unemployment. World unemployment was a thing of such tremendous importance that he felt in time it would require the attention of the parliaments of the world.

Turning to conditions in Canada, Mr. King said he would like to refer to certain things which were being said by Conservative candidates in this campaign.

For instance, L. J. Ladner, former member for Vancouver South and present Conservative candidate had, according to a recent news dispatch, said the policy of the government on unemployment "is to do nothing."

"Mr. Ladner knows better than that," declared Mr. King. "He was a member of parliament, and when Mr Ladner says that, he is saying what he knows is not true, and that is not the way to deal with any problem in any place at any time."

WHERE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS

The government of to-day was simply following along the lines laid down by the previous Conservative administration in respect to unemployment relief, said Mr. King. He quoted from an order-in-council which was passed in 1921, during the Meighen administration, which laid down the principle that unemployment was primarily a municipal and provincial responsibility, and that the Federal Government acted only in cases of emergency.

What was the government doing in its own field? asked the Prime Minister. It had brought in and passed an old age pension law. It had enacted advantageous pension legislation for the returned men, and was meeting the necessary expenditures which would run into millions. It had asked Sir Henry Thornton to keep on employees of the Canadian National Railway system, who might have been let out after the wheat crop failure and the stock market crash.

TEMPORARY PROBLEM

"Why is there unemployment?" asked the Premier. "The government takes the view that the causes of unemployment are of a distinctly temporary nature, arising from time to time, and the great problem is of world-wide extent, a question which commands attention of governments in all parts of the world.

He spoke of what his administration had done for Canadians who served overseas. Did the government ask the municipalities or provinces to take a share of this burden? Since taking office they had paid out in pensions alone $233,000,000, extended tribunals and generally assisted men who had any claim for suffering, either directly or indirectly, blamable on service during the war.

"You see where the unemployment problem begins," he said. "Do you realize the C.N.R. lost $16,000,000 just because there wasn't the usual crop to move and because there wasn't a market for the crop we had?"

The Prime Minister demanded to know the policy of Hon. R. B. Bennett with respect to unemployment. The Conservative was proposing to call another session of Parliament. "But," said Mr. King, "He gives no indication of what his policy is to be when Parliament meets. What is it he is proposing? He says he is going to raise the tariff. If raising the tariff is a remedy, why is it that in the United States, where they have a high tariff, there are from three to four million people out of work."

PREFERENTIAL TARIFF

"It is easy to ridicule the British preference list," said Premier King in defending the budget. "It is true 500 items appear on the free list, among them iron pipes and cut flowers, but who put them on the tariff list to start with? It was the Tories." His own government was simply trying to get rid of the old hypocrites of protection, he said.

"These critics are not discharging their duty as trustees of the people when they do not give you all the facts in this connection," he said.

In the iron and steel industry, declared the Premier, the budget transferred $200,000,000 in purchases from the United States to Great Britain. He was informed that, under the new tariff, some the steel for the Canadian National Hotel in Vancouver would come from Britain.

He spoke of the Empire Economic Conference. Defeat of his government, he said, would mean defeat of the budget, which had been cheered to the echo in Britain. In the hands of his hearers lay the power to help in this work started by his government, or to do infinite harm.

SALMON TREATY

The sockeye salmon treaty was mentioned by Mr. King. He reminded his hearers the Conservatives had delayed the passing of this treaty. Millions of dollars had been lost, he said, through the delay and the Conservatives must account to the people of British Columbia.

PEACE RIVER RAILWAY

Of particular interest to a western audience was the Prime Minister's statement that the construction of a railway outlet from the Peace River district might furnish employment for many men now out of work. He had personally seen the presidents of both the great Canadian railway systems in an effort to ascertain the reasons for delay in going on with this project, he said.

"What we have said to each of them is that the people of Western Canada are interested in the construction of this road," said Mr. King with emphasis. "We have told them—and this was some time ago—that we think six months is long enough to decide on the route, and we have told them that if they have not discovered a route in six months, then the government will find a way or make it, to construct a road."

A feature of the Prime Minister's speech was a reference to the need for better and cheaper means of communication between Canada and the Orient.

The first speaker of the evening, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Immigration, and the newest member of the Federal Cabinet, said Premier King was welcome in Vancouver, not only because of the record of his government, but for other reasons. The Prime Minister was welcome because his government had put through the Australian Trade Treaty. He was welcome because his administration had worked for reduced transportation costs, and had decreased the cost of instruments of production. But, said Capt. Mackenzie, the Prime Minister was doubly welcome because he had made one of the most magnificent gestures ever made in the British Empire. He referred to the British preference provisions of the budget. These provisions had been acclaimed in Great Britain and Canada, he said, and it was "burlesqued only by third-rate music hall comedians who make sport of the Empire-building programme."

Capt. Mackenzie expressed the view that a lot of unemployed persons were coming across the line and adding to the unemployment problem in Canada. He thought the United States border should be watched carefully on this account but he added that if he had anything to do with immigration matters in future returning Canadians would always be welcome in Canada.

HANBURY SPEAKS

The Liberal candidate in Vancouver-Burrard, Wilfred Hanbury, was the next speaker.

"Mr. Bennett is opposed to extending the British preference and proposes to blast his way into the markets of the world," said Mr. Hanbury. The Liberal policy, on the other hand, was to try and promote trade by good-will and friendship.

There was a grain elevator in Vancouver, and for a long time it did no business. It became known as "a white elephant," said Mr. Hanbury. "As a matter of fact it was known as "Stevens's white elephant," he added. If Canada did not succeed in developing foreign trade the Dominion might ultimately have other white elephants on its hands in the shape of railways, which could not carry on, and other enterprises which were unable to make a success of business.

IMPORTANT ELECTION

The chairman then introduced T. D Pattullo, British Columbia Liberal leader.

"In my humble judgment this is the most important election since Confederation," said Mr. Pattullo. Canada's national status was an issue, he declared, as also was Canadian and Empire trade.

He wondered if the eyes of the United States were not on Canada at the present time. "Mr. Bennett has said, that if he is returned the British preference will be annulled," said Mr. Pattullo.

Canada's action on the budget, said Mr. Pattullo, would be a powerful contribution to the peace of the world.

School Board To Meet To-night

Routine matters will be discussed at the regular meeting of the city school board this evening.

Chief among the tiems for consideration will be recommendations submitted by the building committee for repair work to schools during the holidays, while tenders for fuel oil and coal will also come up for discussion.

It is understood that little will be done to-night with regard to any teaching staff changes, which usually take place during the holiday prior to the reopening of school.

BEAVERBROOK IS SPEAKER IN ELECTION FIELD

Canadian Press

London, July 9.—Lord Beaverbrook has taken off his coat. The chief sponsor of the Empire free trade crusade has plunged into the North Norfolk by-election with the characteristic Beaverbrook vim.

While the Canadian-born newspaper owner is stumping the country in the interest of T. A. Cook, the Conservative candidate, he is not limiting the scope of his appeal to the Conservative-minded.

Speaking at Holt, North Northfolk, Lord Beaverbrook turned to the Liberal members of his audience, who hold, in the absence of a candidate of their own, the balance of power in the constituency.

"Come along with McKenna, (Rt. Hon. Reginal McKenna, the last great Liberal Chancellor of the Exchequer) and with a host of others," he exhorted. "Come, march with Lloyd George. He has pledged himself, if he becomes Prime Minister, to see there will be no more dumping of agricultural produce in Great Britain."

"The Labor Party is divided in counsel," he declared, "and many front-benchers favor the principles underlying Empire free trade."

The climax of the speech of Lord Beaverbrook came in his words: "Go out. Go out for Empire free trade. Go out to work to bring Britain economic and industrial regeneration."

CANADA LANDS BILL IS PASSED

London, July 9.—The House of Commons yesterday gave third reading to the British North America Bill. This bill amends the British North America Act, taking cognizance of the arrangements effected between the Government of Canada and the Government of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for the return of their natural resources. It also deals with the return of lands in the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt to the juriadiction of the Province of British Columbia.

The bill had already passed through all stages in the House of Lords. It now only awaits the royal signature to become law.

GERMANS DISCUSS BRIAND'S EUROPE UNION PROPOSAL

Berlin, July 9.—Metropolitan dailies claiming to be able to give a reliable forecast of the German Government's reply to M. Briand's pan-Europe memorandum, state M. Bland's proposals is regarded as coming within the purview of the League of Nations.

All proposals of this nature, it is believed in Germany, should be submitted to the League in order that duplication of work might be avoided.

The points of agreement which Germany regards as most important, these nomic and tariff questions as well as papers state, comprise common eco-agricultural problems.

Problems involving the rights of foreigners, international passports and admission to citizenship are discussed by the papers. Problems of telegaphs and telephones are world questions which go far beyond pan-European limits, it is held.

It is regarded as desirable the co-operation of nations outside of Europe should be secured in solving them.

The German reply to the memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand was the subject of a debate yesterday at a session of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag. The text of the reply was not made public.

KING FOR THE EMPIRE

IF ANY MEMBER OF THE GREAT AUDIence which greeted him at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday evening had any doubt about the relationship between the verdict which this country will return on July 28 and the future of Canada's business association with Great Britain, as well as the rest of the empire, Premier King must have completely removed it.

Special points to be remembered about the imperial aspects of the campaign, and to which the Prime Minister referred, may be summarized as follows:

Mr. Bennett and the Conservative party are opposed to the King government's policy of lowering the duties on goods Canada imports from Great Britain.

If Mr. Bennett were permitted to form a government, one of his first actions would be to abolish the British Preference and tell Great Britain that her goods would have to pay the same duties as foreign goods have to pay to enter Canada—unless the consumers of the United Kingdom consented to the taxation of their foreign imports.

The trade treaties with Australia, New Zealand, and the British West Indies would be abolished immediately if the Conservatives were elected to office. All these commercial arrangements are being attacked from every opposition platform in the present campaign, in spite of the heavy financial advantage which this Dominion is enjoying as a result of their operation.

Business in British Columbia would suffer a severe blow if the treaties with the Antipodean Dominions were materially disturbed. Even the Conservative Vancouver Daily Province, as recently as yesterday, declared that the pact with Australia, "in its results and its promises, stands as one of the government's major accomplishments."

These points are especially important in view of the fact that upon the result of the election on July 28 will depend the personnel of the delegation which will attend the imperial and economic conferences to be held in London next fall. The principal business of the economic conference, of course, will be to devise ways and means of increasing trade between the various parts of the empire, to discuss policies calculated to reduce the empire's purchases from foreign countries, to develop and utilize the empire's resources to a much greater extent than they are being developed and utilized at present.

If Mr. King shall be permitted to lead Canada's delegation to the London gatherings, he will be in a position to tell his fellow delegates that this Dominion's earnest desire is to develop trade within the empire by every possible means—that Canada has led the way in this regard.

If Mr. Bennett shall take Canada's delegation to London, he will have to tell his fellow delegates that his policy of developing trade is by "blasting" this country's way into the markets of the world, that his party is committed to the abolition of the British Preference and trade treaties with other parts of the empire.

Surely every fair-minded voter who believes in the empire will want Mr. King to take Canada's promise to London that this Dominion earnestly desires to do more business with the other parts of that empire—and will continue to play its part towards that end.

AT SUNSHINE CAMP

A FEW DAYS AGO WE PUBLISHED A letter which must have struck a note of sympathy in the hearts of all who read it. As readers may recall, it was written by a woman who had just returned to the city after spending two weeks at the Sunshine Camp for Tired Mothers at Sooke. It told of the fine work which this institution is doing, how the women and children who go there are given a complete holiday in the open air, how the matron in charge, busy as she is, still finds time to take the children for a walk every day and give them little talks on Nature study. But, according to our correspondent, the camp lacks just one thing, and that is an ice box to keep the children's milk cool. It is essential to avoid the continual labor of scalding the milk, and of the wastage occasioned by milk going sour. Our correspondent suggested that some person in Victoria might make good this deficiency in the camp's equipment and send out an ice box to Sooke.

We have no doubt that by this time a box has been sent, for usually in our city such a need has only to be made known to be filled. Possibly, however, this matter has been overlooked somehow. If it has, an opportunity to do something really useful awaits some citizen who can afford to supply an ice box to the Sunshine Camp at Sooke. And if this opportunity has gone, as we expect it has, there must be many other things which would add to the comfort of the camp's guests. In any case, such institutions can usually make excellent use of a five or ten-dollar bill. We do not know of any investment which will return such immediate and large dividends of satisfaction, as the knowledge that some mother and children are spending a few days more beside the sea at Sooke.

DR. TOLMIE RALLIES 'ROUND

PREMIER TOLMIE IS TO SPEAK AT A public meeting to-night in support of the Conservative candidate in Victoria. As an ex-member of two Conservative governments at Ottawa, as the former organizer of the Conservative party, and as the leader of the party in British Columbia, it is easy to understand why Dr. Tolmie is thus publicly declaring his position in the present campaign. But as Prime Minister of this province, it is not so easy to understand his attitude, and all his powers of argument will be required to explain it.

Dr. Tolmie has publicly stated in the Legislature that his government has received fair and generous treatment from the King government from the beginning of his regime here; his political attachments have made no difference in the handling of our business at Ottawa. As Dr. Tolmie well knows, Mr. King more than once has championed the interests of British Columbia, side by side with Dr. Tolmie, when Mr. Bennett was opposing them. Indeed, if Dr. Tolmie had received similar treatment from a government headed by Mr. Bennett, this would be used now as a final argument for returning Mr. Bennett to power. Because it was received from a government headed by Mr. King, apparently, it will not weigh against the considerations of Conservative party expediency.

The record of Dr. Tolmie's two years of office shows no good reason why his government should be opposing Premier King in this election. It probably explains also why that opposition, that support of Mr. Bennett, is being rendered by the provincial government without any notable enthusiasm. In the first place, the Tolmie ministry has found no difficulty in clearing up such ancient difficulties between the province and the Dominion as the return of the Railway Lands, already arranged by the Oliver and MacLean governments. In numerous less important matters from time to time it has sought and found the co-operation of the federal administration. For instance, when the treaty designed to restore the Fraser River salmon run came before Parliament it was the federal government which supported it and the opposition, led by Mr. Bennett, which fought it, until Premier Tolmie, with credit to himself, publicly disciplined his federal colleagues. Not once—and this surely is a remarkable record—has Dr. Tolmie found it necessary to criticize the federal government for any action in the affairs of British Columbia, though he often has criticized the Conservative opposition.

In some of the larger issues of trade and commerce Dr. Tolmie's present support of the Conservative party is likewise a flat contradiction of his former attitude. If the general trade policy of the King government may be divided into sections, perhaps that of most direct and immediate concern to British Columbia to date has been the Australian Trade Treaty. Mr. Bennett has consistently attacked this treaty. Dr. Tolmie, knowing that it was of very considerable value to British Columbia, has supported it. He has gone further than that—he has sought to broaden the treaty and increase our trade with Australia. His government helped to finance the lumbermen's delegation to Australia some time ago. How Dr. Tolmie would justify the scrapping of the treaty if Mr. Bennett were elected with his support we do not know.

Not only in the case of the Australian Treaty, but in the general issue of empire trade, Dr. Tolmie for years has been urging an increase in commerce between the British nations. We recall many a speech in which he has emphasized the importance of the British market for Canadian goods. Now, when the King government is seeking to increase this trade with Britain, and direct it away from the United States, Dr. Tolmie finds himself on the side of the party which would do nothing to assist Britain in our markets, unless Britain taxed herself to assist us in her markets. For a leader like our provincial Premier, whose every public utterance stresses the need of British ideals and empire solidarity, this is not a happy position.

As a loyal party man, Dr. Tolmie evidently feels he must make some gesture of support to Mr. Bennett. As a British Columbian he has already shown that Mr. King's policies meet the needs of his province. And whatever he may say about these things to-night, the public records of the last two years are open for all to read.

NANAIMO CLASSED "CLOSE CONTEST"

ONE OF THE INTERESTING FEAtures of the election forecast which The Financial Post is conducting—on information obtained from 235 bank managers out of the 245 electoral districts—is the opinion that the contest in the constituency of Nanaimo will be a close one.

There is nothing very surprising in this view. The bank managers in the territory in question naturally have observed the industrious manner in which Mr. O'Halloran has studied the needs of the constituency he hopes to represent at Ottawa in the next Parliament. Although he was unsuccessful at the polls in 1926, on his first bid for political honors, the Liberal candidate was by no means discouraged. On the contrary, he continued his work at once, and we may take it that the favorable impression he has created in the last four years, among supporters and opponents alike, is the reason why in The Post's forecast the endorsement of Mr. Dickie on this occasion appears very doubtful indeed.

Former political friends of the Conservative candidate naturally have not forgotten his famous "machine" speech at the Esquimalt picnic last year. He then declared that if the Conservatives attained office at Ottawa, it might be necessary to jettison otherwise "valuable cargo" to find jobs for those of his party's followers who had borne the heat and burden of the day in the years of opposition. By adopting this policy he believed "a perfect machine could be built up."

Probably there are many in the Nanaimo riding who subscribe to the Conservative faith and who have friends and relatives in the public service. Thus it is hardly likely they will feel disposed to vote for a candidate who has pledged himself to support a policy of getting rid of otherwise "valuable cargo" to make room for good Conservative party workers.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

DROSS
The Ohio State Journal

America may be the great melting pot, but there are a lot of foreign-born gangsters operating in this country who can be properly reduced by nothing except the electric process.

THE BILLBOARD PLAGUE
The Chicago Tribune

For a tip, averaging $25 each, 400,000 land owners have let their roadside lands to signs, and the billboard pests, at present almost beyond control, will flourish unabated. The $10,000,000 paid for billboard leases brings a damage to the countryside, to the communities and towns, to America as a whole, of many hundred millions. They cheapen and disgrace the towns where they are clustered.

A THOUGHT

It is more blessed to give than to receive.—Acts xx 35. He gives twice who gives quickly.—Syrus.

Loose Ends

Some moccasins come down from the north—with a real Indian flavor and disastrous results—Boston rediscovers its statues—and we don't.

By B. B. W.

AS ONE leading citizen of this city has already intimated to me his intention of following my recent footsteps to the North, I feel I must warn him and others against certain dangers besetting their paths. I do not refer to the roads but to the Indians. It is not that the Indians of the North are uncivilized, but that they are too civilized altogether. At old Fort St. James, on Stuart Lake, for instance, they have been trading with the white man for more than 100 years (the white men being mostly canny Scots, too), and by this time they know all about trading. Not realizing this, I went among them innocently and bought their wares for any price they asked, since they seemed ridiculously cheap, anyway. One old squaw, who smokes a large pipe and makes all kinds of things out of moosehide, asked $3.50 for a pair of beautifully-beaded moccasins, and I handed the money over to her in all innocence. A few minutes later another fellow, who knew these people of old, asked the price of a much better pair. He was told they would cost $4. He offered $2.50. The old squaw insisted that she wouldn't go below $3.50, and when he handed the moccasins back to her she took them and started to waddle into her house. But when she saw us starting to drive off she came hurrying back and offered them at $3. Finally my friend got them for $2.75. The lady, with a crafty smile and a hard glint in her old eyes, recognized another trader and said he was a heap smart man.

THAT WAS not the end of my moccasins. I packed them in a grip, but their pungent, smoky smell—they were of moose hide, smoked endlessly over a willow fire—communicated itself to all my clothes, and I went about with such an aroma of an Indian village that my friends avoided me. After that I carried the moccasins separately in a paper bag, and with incredible difficulty got them down to Victoria. Here I presented them to a lady, who went into raptures over their beautiful bead work and soft texture. (They should be soft, the old squaw having chewed the skin for several days, but I didn't tell the lady that). She put them in her clothes closet with her other clothes, and found a few hours later that her entire wardrobe had such an Indian smell that it had to be aired on the line all day. The moccasins also were hung on the line, and the last I heard of them they were hanging in the cellar on a nail and you could still smell them all over the house—a nice, smoky, dark brown Indian smell which I thought rather intriguing, but was very annoying, I'm told, to the neighbors.

I AM MAKING public these facts, not to discourage barter with the Indians, but simply to warn you in advance, for you will never be able to resist their splendid bead work and fine sewing. I bought another pair of moccasins, by the way, for George Pudbury, and he swanks about his house like an Indian chief. And the Pudbury home, they tell me, smells just like the Indian village at the end of Stuart Lake. Mrs. Pudbury, I understand, doesn't like me any more.

UP IN THAT country, by the way, they tell a story about an Englishwoman, just out from the Old Country. She is supposed to have asked old Alexander Murray, the Hudson's Bay factor, whether he found moccasins or snowshoes warmer in the winter.

IN THE GOOD old city of Boston (for which I have an abiding affection, even if you can't find any more of the old-time beans and brown bread there of a Saturday night) they are celebrating their tercentenary. As part of this celebration they have decked out the innumerable statues which stand about the city in gay bunting to attract visitors to them. According to The Boston Christian Science Monitor, the natives also have awakened to the existence of statues which for years they have passed by daily without a glance of recognition. You would almost think, says The Monitor, that all the statues had been painted a brilliant red, orange or purple, a pastime familiar to college students of the more imaginative sort. Having rediscovered their statues, ignored these many years, the Bostonians are rather proud of them.

VICTORIA, IT seems to me, presents a parallel case. We have a large family of statues clinging to the walls of our Parliament Buildings (all, by the way, with a remarkable family resemblance and an hereditary tendency towards stoutness) and yet few Victorians have ever seen them. Those few who have seen them, and I think I am almost the only one, have no idea whom they represent. Each is just six feet of distorted granite to us. The men who made British Columbia great are supposed to be immortalized on the walls of the Parliament Buildings, but I guarantee there are not three men alive who could point to all these ponderous erections and tell you their names.

THERE IS one gentleman who, because of his three-cornered hat and high boots, I take to be Captain Cook, but he might easily be Captain Vancouver, or Dick Turpin for that matter. There is one wild-looking fellow in a long robe whom I have always thought to be Chief Maquinna, but it is quite probable that it is one of the early settlers in his night shirt. There are innumerable gentlemen in uniform frock coats and all with whiskers of such identical cut that no one can distinguish between them. Forever they stand out in the weather, dirtied by the Parliament Buildings' smoke in summer, washed by the rains of winter and forgotten in season and out. Like Boston, we need some kind of a historical celebration which would introduce our statues to the public. We might find they weren't as bad as they look. Indeed, they couldn't be.

BENNETT GIVES VIEWS TO CAPE BRETON VOTERS

Federal Conservative Leader Speaks at Inverness and St. Peters

By Thomas Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Inverness, N.S., July 9.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, spoke here yesterday evening. At an earlier hour he had addressed a meeting at St. Peters.

In his speech he said:

"These old provinces, these old communities must not be neglected in the providing of railway facilities. They must be provided, because you have a right to them. You have maintained the faith and contributed to the national wealth, and if elected to office we will provide the facilities necessary for you to compete on even terms with the nations of the world. That is my conviction and it is a boundless obligation to you."

FISHING INDUSTRY

Touching on fisheries and agriculture, Mr. Bennett said "the collective power of the Dominion must be put behind the development of the agricultural and fishing industries because they are the great food industries upon which lives depend."

Co-operation and organized effort on the part of fishermen, aided by the government," he said, "was the only way to make the fishing industry profitable.

"What has the appointment of the Minister of Fisheries (Hon. Cyrus MacMillan) done for you to help you toward prosperity?" he asked. "Has the government done anything that will justify its return to power? America can fish to the value of seven million dollars were being imported annually from the United States," Mr. Bennett said.

STEEL AND COAL

Mr. Bennett discussed the iron, steel and coal industries. He believed the whole fiscal policy of the Liberal Government, "had made it easier for the product of cheap labor and longer hours of foreign countries to get into this Dominion and made it easier for the United States to dump the surplus of its mass production into Canada. At the Winnipeg convention in 1927, the Conservative Party had pledged itself to a fuel policy and the policy of "Canadian goods through Canadian ports." Both of these pledges, he declared, would be carried out by his party if elected to power. Mr. Bennett spoke in the Labor Temple Hall to an audience composed largely of miners. Scheduled originally for an open air meeting, the inclement weather drove the people to the hall.

Earlier he had addressed a gathering at St. Peter's, composed of fishermen and agriculturalists.

Having completed his tour of Cape Breton Island last night, Mr. Bennett traveled to-day to visit the electors of Antigonish-Guysboro. He will speak in the town of Antigonish this afternoon, and will address a meeting in New Glasgow, Pictou County, this evening.

MAKE COLLECTION OF ORE SAMPLES

B.C. Chamber of Mines Will Have Display at Canadian Pacific Exhibition

Efforts are being made by the British Columbia Chamber of Mines to collect ore samples from all the mines and prospects in the Province for display at the Canadian Pacific Exhibition, opening at Hastings Park, Vancouver, on August 6.

With this end in view the Chamber is communicating with every mine owner in British Columbia, asking them for samples weighing 5 or 10 pounds and for photographs of their property.

Valuable prizes are offered at the exhibition for the finest displays of ore, and the Chamber hopes to make one of the best collection of B.C. ores ever shown.

Owners are asked to state the class of ore; name of, and distance from nearest shipping point; and the name of the mining district or division. By these means it is hoped that the public will receive valuable information which will be of benefit to the mining industry in the Province.

Samples should be sent to the British Columbia Chamber of Mines, 402 Pender Street West, Vancouver.

Plane Southern Cross Is To Go To Museum

Canadian Press

Santa Maria, Calif., July 9.—While its commander and crew spent a brief holiday at San Simeon, Calif., final disposition of the monoplane Southern Cross, veteran girdler of the globe, today occupied the thoughts of G. Allan Hancock, wealthy financial backer of the ship's famed Pacific flight, to whom Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith and his two flying mates formally returned the craft yesterday.

Hancock said he planned to put the Southern Cross on temporary display at an aeronautical college he founded here and later might place it with some museum. Hancock said the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, was suggested as the final resting place for the plane, but added he had made no decision or arrangements.

Ten thousand enthusiastic persons—nearly equal to this city's population, greeted the Southern Cross as it dropped to a perfect three-point landing five minutes after noon yesterday from San Francisco.

SEEK HELP FOR MAINLAND FAIR

Executive Council Hears Petition From Representatives of New Westminster

The Provincial Cabinet is to-day considering an appeal for assistance to the New Westminster Exhibition received yesterday from a delegation composed of Lower Fraser Valley reeves and representatives of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition Association, who intimated that the government would favor the assistance of an amalgamated fair board of the Vancouver and New Westminster associations rather than encourage the continuance of two separate exhibitions.

Headed by J. W. Berry, M.P.P., of Langley Prairie, and W. R. Rutledge, M.P.P., of Burnaby, the delegation urged the executive council to assist New Westminster fair, after outlining a situation which threatens to end one of the oldest and best known exhibitions in the province.

The association suffered a serious blow from the fire which destroyed the fair buildings last summer and forced the officials to hold it in tents and temporary make-shifts. The New Westminster City Council has refused requests for new buildings and up to the present all other efforts to obtain assistance have proved fruitless.

After the delegation had stated its case, the members took their departure on the afternoon boat to Vancouver.

AT THE THEATRES

UNUSUAL STORY IS AT THE COLUMBIA WITH CLEVER STAR

A dual existence is led by Sophie Tucker in "Honky Tonk," Warner Bros. latest, talking, singing Vitaphone production showing at the Columbia today—in which she makes her initial appearance as a screen star, after many years as the premiere "red hot mamma' of the stage. Though she is the principal entertainer in a notorious night club, the story reveals that she is in reality a lover of home, and merely follows her vocation that her daughter may be maintained in a fashionable European school.

"MAMBA" DIRECTOR SERVED MANY YEARS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Major Owen Martin, who acted as technical director in the production of "Mamba," Tiffany's gorgeous all-talking and all-Technicolor picture showing at the Playhouse Theatre, served for twelve years with the British army in East Africa and knows that country from A to Z. All the sets, native costumes and uniforms were designed and made under his supervision. Jean Hersholt, Eleanor Boardman and Ralph Forbes are featured in "Mamba."

WELL-KNOWN STARS AT CAPITOL WITH "SPRING IS HERE"

Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire who made such a hit in "No, No, Nanette," are again starred in "Spring Is Here," the First National musical production showing at the Capital Theatre to-day.

These two were together in "The Desert Song" in New York. Incidentally that was the first professional appearance of Miss Claire. When Alexander Gray went over to the First National studio in Brooklyn to make a voice and screen test, he took Miss Claire with him.

COLORED FILM IS AT DOMINION WITH WINNIE LIGHTNER

Marking a revolutionary step second only to the advent of the Vitaphone itself, the latest development in motion pictures is the production of film stories entirely in their natural colors. The recent perfection of the wondrous Technicolor process has brought to the screen a softness of color unheard of a year ago, and a variety of shading that now reproduces in its true color value everything within the range of the camera.

The latest and most beautiful example of this new art is "Hold Everything," the hilarious comedy featuring that great comedy team, Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner. It is a Warner Bros. production now playing a three-day engagement at the Dominion Theatre.

GRIPPING ROMANCE OF EUROPE PLAYS AT THE COLISEUM

Which is the greater passion, love or patriotism? This question finds its answer in "This Mad World," a William de Mille M-G-M starring vehicle which is now at the Coliseum Theatre. Basil Rathbone, a French spy, and Kay Johnson, a beautiful German girl, are the protagonists in a gripping romance which takes place entirely behind the German lines in Alsace.

CHURCH PARTY IS WELCOMED TO VICTORIA

Lieut.-Governor, Premier and Mayor Welcome New Outlook Group at Empress Banquet

Butchart Gardens Visited To-day and Party Left For Vancouver Later

Members of the New Outlook party of the United Church of Canada from Toronto and other eastern points to the number of nearly 200 were formally welcomed to British Columbia and Victoria last evening at a banquet in the Empress Hotel by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Tolmie and Mayor Anscomb. Dr. S. W. Fallis, conductor of the party, presided at the banquet and others at the head table were Miss Margaret Mackenzie, Mrs. Tolmie, Mrs. Anscomb, the Earl and Countess of Stair, Rev. Dr. Sipprell, Rev. Dr. Wilson, Rev. Mr. Hood and Rev. Mr. Unsworth.

The three principal speakers of the evening were the Lieutenant-Governor, the Premier and the Mayor. Lieutenant-Governor Bruce extended to the members of the party a very hearty welcome to British Columbia, and told the gathering of the great benefits to be derived by the people in the east seeing the west and those in the west seeing the east. The provinces were all more or less dependent on each other, His Honor said and the success of one province was now the success of all. Visits of the nature of The Outlook party could not help but have a beneficial result, the Lieutenant-Governor said, and he was pleased to note with what eagerness the party from Ontario had come into British Columbia, intent on grasping all they could in a short time and learning about the great west.

INTO THE PEACE

Premier Tolmie in extending a welcome on behalf of the government told the members of the party of what they are yet to see. Leaving Vancouver to-night, the Premier said, the party will travel up that great inland body of water where mal de mer is almost unknown. Landing at Prince Rupert they will travel inland through British Columbia's farm lands and timber limits and after passing through the mountains will move on to the Peace River district, where the eyes of North America are now turned. The Premier told of the opportunities to be found in that Peace River block, and assured those from the east that if any of them decided to settle there the government of British Columbia would be glad to supply them with any amount of descriptive literature absolutely free of charge. The Premier hoped that the visit would be a most instructive and helpful experience in the lives of all who had made it, that it would make the members better able to understand the problems of all parts of the Dominion and that he would again see them in British Columbia and in the capital city.

In his usual pleasing and brief style Mayor Anscomb welcomed the members of the party to Victoria. His Worship spoke of the influence the church should have in moulding of character and, having such, should play a dominant part in the upbuilding of a nation of individuals fitted to develop a country whose heritage was indeed a wonderful one. The Mayor spoke of the many influential parties it had been his honor to greet from the east and many times from across the border, but it had given him no greater pleasure at any time to welcome to Victoria a party such as the United Church party from Ontario. He sincerely hoped that the members of the party would return again and again to Victoria and that, perchance, a few of them would see fit to remain here.

HERE FROM ENGLAND

Asked to speak a few words to the gathering, the Earl of Stair, who is a visitor at Government House from the United Kingdom, told of coming to Canada with the intention of visiting only at Toronto, where he was sent to attend the great Shrine convention there last month. But he heard so much about the west he decided to come out here, and certainly was not sorry. He only wished he would be able to go north and into the Peace River with the rest of the party. He was relieved to find out, he said, that most of the people in the gathering had never been through the Rockies before, and so he felt not quite so uneducated, it also being his first trip through the mountains to British Columbia.

G. W. Mason, K.C., legal counsel for the New Outlook gave a few statistics of the party. Most of the members of the party were from Ontario, he said, with a large number from Toronto. There were several from Quebec, two from Saskatchewan and one each from New York City, Philadelphia and Detroit. Ninety per cent of the party, Mr. Mason said, had never been west of the Great Lakes before, and he felt that the United Church was sponsoring a great thing when it brought those people from the east to see the other end of their great country. He hoped, as a return, that many people from the west who had never been east would visit Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes as soon as they were able.

LOCAL COMMITTEE

Dr. W. J. Sipprell, chairman of the local entertainment committee, also spoke a few words and introduced those on the local committee who had helped to make the stay of the party in Victoria so enjoyable. Everyone in Victoria had been most kind, Dr. Sipprell said, in making arrangements for the stay here of the party, and he was sure that the eastern visitors would enjoy every moment of their visit in Victoria.

Solos were given between the speeches by Dr T. Harry Johns of Victoria accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Johns and by Miss Irene Williams, a former Metropolitan Opera star, who is traveling with the party and who plays her own accompaniments.

The 200 members of the party and the local committee were driven in a fleet of busses and cars out to West Saanich this morning and visited the Butchart Gardens and the Astrophysical Observatory. About an hour was spent wandering around the famous sunken garden, now at the height of their summer loveliness, and after a visit to the observatory the party motored back to Victoria and around the residential districts of Beach Drive, the Uplands and Rockland Avenue.

Return to Vancouver was made this afternoon aboard the steamer Princess Kathleen. The party will leave the mainland port to-night aboard the Canadian National steamer Prince Rupert for Prince Rupert, from where the party will travel inland through British Columbia and through the Rockies, making a twenty-four hour stop, en route at Jasper Park. From Edmonton they will proceed north into the Peace River block for a few days. Returning to Edmonton they will entrain for the east.

COWS IN NEED OF GOOD FEED DURING AUGUST

Farmers Must Provide Succulent Fodder, Shade and Fly Spray to Get Good Milk

August is the hardest month of the year for the dairy herd. If milk production can be maintained during the month little concern need be felt about maintenance of the milk flow during the balance of the season.

Superintendent W. H. Hicks of the Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Agassiz, provides some useful suggestions for meeting the difficulties of this trying month. Principal among these are, control of flies, protection from the hot sun, an ample supply of cool water, and the use of succulent feed to supplement dried-out pasturage. By adequate provision in this respect the dairyman will find his August problem solved to a great extent.

Control of flies is best secured through the use of a suitable spray, the superintendent says. At the Agassiz farm a light spray is used. It gives little difficulty in application, does not discolor the cows, is nicely scented, and is not too expensive. It is frequently applied twice a day.

COWS NEED SHADE

Protection from the sun may be provided by shade trees in the pasture, under which the cows may feed and rest. Another satisfactory method of keeping the cows cool is to stable them during the day and let them pasture at night. Shading and screening the windows provides added coolness in the barn, and also helps in the control of flies.

During this month a succulent roughage should be fed as a supplement to pasturage. Ensilage from clover, peas and oats or corn gives very good results.

Every care should be taken to maintain the milk production during August. Incidentally, it is not a good month in which to have cows freshen, because of the difficulty of getting them away to a good start in milk production at a time when feed and other factors are unfavorable.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

HOW CAN WE GET CHILD TO EAT VEGETABLES?

The amazement with which I read the two letters which follow will probably be matched by your own. They are such perfect complements for each other that the accident of their arriving the same day and being read one following the other seems almost uncanny. Here they are — judge for yourself:

"My baby is seventeen months old, has twelve teeth, weighs twenty pounds and is thirty-one inches tall," Mrs. P. H. R. writes. "She does not look thin, but solid and strong. She eats eggs, bread, bacon, cereal, fruits and puddings. She drinks one and one-half pints of milk a day. She also has beef broth and orange juice. She sleeps well, but sucks her thumb at night. She likes to imitate us and this works well every place except at the table. She won't touch anything that looks like a green vegetable. I have tried vegetables she has never tasted before. One taste and they are out. We ignored her. We put her to bed without supper and she cried all night. Can you help me?"

IMPROVEMENT IN APPETITE

Here is the next letter, solved by a change in the other foods and the cutting down of one meal daily:

A Young Mother confides: "I wish to thank you sincerely for the good results I had following your advice. You remember my fifteen-months-old-boy, who would not eat vegetables. You told me to cut down on such foods as cream, oatmeal, etc., and I wish you could see him eat carrots, spinach, peas, asparagus, fresh tomatoes, and so on. I feed him only three times a day at regular intervals. He gets so hungry he eats anything put before him. He looks rosier every day. A friend just remarked how much brighter and healthier he seemed. For some reason he suddenly quit sucking his thumb.

"I wrote you for your leaflet on training to the stool. I began the kidney training about one and one-half or two months ago and the result is that he now goes for days without wetting himself. (Any mother who desires the training leaflet may have it for only a self-addressed, stamped envelope). He used to carry his chamber to me and I would have him sit on it, and now he no longer plays with it, unless he wishes to use it. I found if the small chamber is put on the mother's lap that the child does not resent using it. Your column is such a big help to us mothers, Mrs. Eldred."

It is sweet of you to tell me the good results of the advice. I often wish more mothers would, for while we aren't asking for cake to be returned for the bread we cast on the waters, we would like to know what happens to the bread.

I hope Mrs. P. H. R. will find that when the rich satisfying and sometimes appetite-destroying foods in her daughter's menu are limited in quantity, it will arouse a better appetite for the vegetables. Our leaflet, No. 118, "How To Introduce New and Nourishing Foods," will also be helpful. Just enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and the leaflet will be sent promptly.

First United W.M.S. Entertained By Mrs. J. H. Fletcher

The July meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of First United Church, through the kind hospitality of Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, was held in the garden of her home, "Arran," York Place. A perfect day drew a large attendance of members and after the usual routine business was transacted Rev. W. A. Guy, pastor of Oak Bay United Church, gave a most interesting address on the subject of "Cultures."

Cultures were evolved from some idea, theory or conclusion which dropped in congenial soil, grew and propogated in proportion to the enthusiasm with which it was received and the results promised by its promulgation, said Mr. Guy. Cultures might be an influence for good or evil. Forms of religion were cultures, and in different countries left a deep impress on the national life and character. In China, it took the form of Confucianism and ancestor worship; in India, Buddhism and Mahommedanism; in Persia, the worship of the sun; in Africa, idolatory and superstition; in modern Russia, the effort to banish all reminders of the Divine. In the Christian culture the Divine is a God of Love, and His Son, the only Saviour. Love instigates and controls every thought, word and conduct of the true Christian. Its proof of excellence is that it works, continued the speaker.

"Japan of all the so-called heathen nations, alert for all that is for the good of her people, shows a great desire to incorporate the Christian culture in the national life. She may, in her keenness and the thorough way she goes at what she wants, put some of our self-styled Christian nations to shame. If we do not bear the torch on high, it may pass to worthier hands. The W.M.S. tries to hold this torch on high and send light into the dark places. Only under the direct guidance of the Holy Spirit can this be done. Put your home, energy and money into the most important issues, let the less important things go," concluded Mr. Guy.

After tendering a very hearty vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Guy for his inspiring address and to Mrs. Fletcher for her generous hospitality, tea was served and a most enjoyable time spent in social intercourse.

Summer School For Voice Training To Start in Victoria

The present day is witnessing a strong revival of interest in elocution. This is probably due to the influence of the radio and the talkies, both of which daily draw attention to the fact that the importance of speech has been undervalued in modern education.

There has existed actual prejudice against any sort of training in the reading of prose or poetry or the delivery of speeches, so much so that the majority of clergy, politicians and teachers have given attention to everything else except how to read and speak well.

The quickening of interest in the subject of speech training has led to an increasing demand for trained tuition. In response to this demand Mrs. Wilfrid Ord, F.T.C.L., principal of the Victoria School of Expression, is giving a short summer course during the afternoons and evenings of July in Victoria.

Unemployment Situation Still Problem; Donations Received

An unusually large number of cases, due to the present unemployment situation, have been dealt with at the Friendly Help Association during June, according to the monthly report presented at the meeting of the Friendly Help Association yesterday. A total of 114 cases, representing 423 persons, were assisted: seventy-five had groceries; seventeen had fuel (four coal and fifteen wood); thirty-nine had milk daily and forty-five had meat more than once.

From the rooms, thirty-eight got clothing; nineteen got provisions as eggs, vegetables, salmon, lettuce, etc.; four got sundries, as go-cart, blankets, bedding, baby's cot, etc.

The association received many pleasant surprises any anonymous gifts, said the report. A young lad came into the rooms and gave us a small sum of money he had found but would give no name. These are the incidents that cheer us in our work. We wish to thank all the kind friends who sent in clothing for the family which has gone to England. Broadens Field Open to Amateurs In Photography

Exhibition Art Section Changes Permit Printing By Professional

The keen interest of Victoria photographers in Victoria in the art section of the Provincial Exhibition, opening at the Willows, August 18, and continuing to August 23, has been accentuated by a change, which considerably broadens the field open to amateurs.

In the class for amateur snapshots it is now provided that the photograph must have been taken by the exhibitor, but may have been developed and printed by a professional. Judging will be based on composition and interest of the subject. This gives amateurs an opportunity to make many fine pictures between now and the date entries close (August 9), with which to bid for honors.

"The committee is to be commended on this modification," writes Boyd MacGill. I hope the change will be brought to the notice of photographers so that it will be the means of bringing this concession to the notice of intending competitors who may as yet have been unaware of the change and that it will increase the entries.

The classes are as follows:

125 Million Explosions

in each grain of wheat

. . . thus making Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

HERE'S an utterly different ready-to-eat cereal! Crisper . . . crunchier . . . more flavory. And with virtually the same nourishment as hot cooked cereals!

That's because Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are made in an entirely different way from all other cereals. Plump, choice grains of wheat and rice are sealed in huge bronze guns. The guns are revolved in fiery ovens. The natural moisture in each grain is changed to steam. Then the guns are fired. 125 million explosions occur in every grain. Each tiny food cell is blasted open. Thus every particle of the grain is made as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. And so Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice attain the virtual nourishment of hot cooked cereals.

This process explains why Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice have an extra delicious flavor . . . plus a crisp light daintiness that tempts the appetite. Serve these little nuggets of rich grain nourishment for breakfast, luncheon and supper. They digest so easily that they're extra good for children's evening meal. MRS. COCHRAN BELIEVED HER CASE HOPELESS

Had Suffered 30 Long Years Before She Got Sargon; Now Well, She Says

"From the time I was a comparatively young woman, I had been suffering with stomach trouble and a nervous condition that I thought I would never be able to end. Then I started the Sargon treatment, and I never would have believed that any medicine in the world could have done as much for anybody as this medicine did for me.

"My nerves were in a terrible condition. I suffered with awful pains in my right side day and night. I don't believe anybody ever suffered more than I did, for I went through almost thirty years of it. Several times I was told to get ready for the operating table. Each time, I would put it off, hoping that I would finally find a medicine that would make the operation unnecessary. I practically had no appetite at all, I simply couldn't find a food that didn't upset me. Many a night I have gone practically sleepless with pains in my side and stomach, and I would get up in the mornings with my nerves on edge, tired, sick and almost exhausted. I was constipated, bilious, rundown and miserable.

"From the first few doses of Sargon I began to feel better. The way my appetite came back and my stomach trouble left me seems little less than a miracle. I eat anything in the world I want, and I never even have the slightest trace of stomach trouble. The pain in my right side is gone. My nerves are normal. I enjoy wonderfully refreshing sleep, and my entire system is toned up and invigorated. Now I am so much stronger and more energetic. Why, everyone I know notices it, and I am just like a different person.

"The first natural bowel movement I have had in years, I owe to Sargon Soft Mass Pills. It is certainly a joy to know that all my terrible constipation and biliousness is over, and when I say these pills are as wonderful as Sargon, I don't know of any higher praise I could give them. They have never nauseated or upset me, but are wonderfully effective."

The above statement was recently made by Mrs. Wm. N. Cochran, of 1147 Harrison Street, Portland, Oregon.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores and in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Co. (Advt.)

Engineers Recommend St. Lawrence Scheme

Canadian-U.S. Experts Suggest Double Stage Development Costing About $274,000,000

By W. W. MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, July 9. — A double stage deep-water navigation and power development, costing in the neighborhood of $274,000,000, or $281,963,000, according to certain alternative features of the project, is envisaged in the report on the conference between members of the Canadian section of the joint board of engineers and representatives of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, who investigated the deep-water navigation and power possibilities of the St. Lawrence in the international rapids sections of the river.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission was represented at the conference by Dr. F. A. Gaby, chief engineer, and Dr. T. A. Hogg, chief hydraulic engineer. The Canadian members of the joint board were D. W. MacLachlan of the Department of Railways and Canals; Brig.-Gen. C. H. Mitchell of Toronto and O. Lefebvre.

The report, which was the unanimous recommendation of the conference, was made public from the Prime Minister's office here yesterday.

POWER DEVELOPMENT

The conference was called with a view to examining the engineering difficulties involved in the deepening of the St. Lawrence and the development of power therefrom.

The development recommended differs in some minor respects from the double-stage scheme suggested by the Canadians in their conferences with the United States section of the joint board several years ago, and which was embodied in the main report published in 1926. In that particular report the Canadians submitted two schemes.

The first of these contemplated a double-stage development scheme, with the first stage at Ogden Island, near Morrisburg, Ont., and the lower one at Barnhart Island, about two and a half miles above Cornwall, Ont. As an appendix the Canadians submitted the alternative project of installing the first stage at Chrysler Island, about three miles downstream from Morrisburg.

AT CHRYSLER ISLAND

The present conference report now definitely recommends this Chrysler Island development in preference to the Ogden Island one. The second stage remains as before, at Barnhart Island.

The duty assigned to the conference was "to report respecting method of developing the international rapids section, while at the same time fully safeguarding Canadian territorial and all other Canadian interests in the purely national, that is to say, the Canadian, section of the river."

Meetings were held in Ottawa in March, 1929, and there followed a series of comprehensive investigations into all phases of the project.

TIME ELEMENT

Special study of the relative economy of the various projects as related to time of completion and markets for power led the conferees to the following conclusions:

"A—That the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence River should be improved by means of what is commonly known as a two-stage or double-stage project.

"B—That the upper dam and power houses of such two-stage project should be placed at Chrysler Island.

"C—That the lower dam of such two-stage project should be placed at the head of Barnhart Island.

"D—That the power houses of the lower development should be placed across the channel between Barnhart Island and the Canadian mainland, with Bergen Lake, situated north of Sheek Island, constituting part of the headrace leading to these power houses."

It is an economic necessity, the report says, that the natural control of Galop Rapids be removed.

The flow of water should also be controlled at the Chrysler Island dam by the operation of gates and turbines in such a manner as would pass the discharge determined by an approved regulation of Lake Ontario outflow.

FLOODING OF LAND

The conference disapproved of the single stage project recommended by the United States personnel on the joint board of engineers, finding the additional flooding of land and the extent of the embankments, together with other adverse effects at the end of the navigation season, made such a scheme undesirable.

Consideration was given by the commission to two stage projects at Ogden Island and at Chrysler Island, but the conference concluded to recommend the latter.

Other projects were examined by the members of the conference, but were rejected on the ground of the tremendous expenditures entailed. Crystalizing the considerations which led them to recommend the Chrysler Island scheme, the conferees give the following general features:

a. A free open channel south of Galop Island for use of navigation, along with a diversion channel, capable of control, through Galop Island

TO EXTEND CHANNEL

b. Channel enlargement between Lotus Island and Morrisburg, designed to give 95,000 square feet of river section at ordinary operating levels.

c. A dam with two powerhouses at Chrysler Island and a powerhouse on either side of the international boundary.

d. A dam at the head of Barnhart Island, with two powerhouses at the foot of that island, one on either side of the existing boundary.

e. Lock for passing fourteen-foot navigation through the dam at Chrysler Island, and also a similar structure to give access to the Cornwall Canal at the Barnhart Island plant.

f. A short side canal with lock on the Canadian side at Chrysler Island, and a side canal with two locks on the United States side opposite Barnhart Island. These works are designed to carry deep water navigation past the proposed powerhouses and dams.

g. Various works designed to protect the interests of the towns and villages affected by the improvements.

In connection with the last consideration, the reports says the construction of the work at Chrysler Island would rise the water levels opposite the village of Iroquois and the town of Morrisburg. All projects would have the same effect on Iroquois, however, since the village is low-lying.

TOWN RECONSTRUCTION

Compensation would be made to the inhabitants in the form of reconstructing Iroquois on higher land immediately north and west of the village, and estimates of cost are suggested to this end.

In Morrisburg only one-third of the town would be affected. The report of the joint board of engineers recommended building a retaining wall to protect the town, but the conference suggests the low land be reclaimed, and the whole area raised above the level of the river. The buildings in that part would be removed and reconstructed farther back. While the reclaimed land would be turned into a park.

PREMIER FERGUSON'S OPINION

Toronto, July 9.—All considerations put forward by the engineers against an all-Canadian development of the St. Lawrence must now give way to the sovereign necessity of preserving Canadian control of any canal system devised for the international section of the river, Premier G. Howard Ferguson said, commenting on the report made public at Ottawa.

He said one most important question was not touched at all by this report. The question of water power ownership, which he, contending the provinces are sole owners, has made an issue in the present Federal election campaign.

He found no fault with the engineers. He merely remarked the point was not touched.

"If Premier King really intended to go on with the development of the St Lawrence, he would settle that question," Mr. Ferguson said, "but of course this report does not touch on that phase of the question."

PLATOON SYSTEM ASSISTS PUPILS IN GRADE SCHOOL

Prof. R. Straight Explains the Value of New Method of Instruction to Teachers

The aims of the platoon system, the new method of class room instruction being illustrated in the demonstration department of the Summer School for teachers, were outlined by Professor Robert Straight in a lecture before the teachers at the High School auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Professor Straight, the first to introduce the system into a grade school in this Province, explained to the gathering that in the new method, the pupils were given the benefit of the specialized instruction which different teachers could impart to them. In place of the general all round course, the platoon schools aimed to give students lessons of an intensified nature by teachers who had made a separate study of the various subjects which they taught.

By means of it, he continued, the pupils particularly bright in one or two subjects could go ahead of the class without causing the less bright pupils difficulty in keeping up with them.

ORIGIN OF SYSTEM

The speaker outlined the origin of the platoon system. He noted that when manual training and domestic science had been first introduced into the curricula of schools, the teachers had found some difficulty in arranging their rooms to accommodate the children for the new subjects. The platoon system, in which the pupils were gathered together under one instructor for this work, had suggested a way out of the difficulty.

The principle had been applied to music, nature study and other branches of the public school course, he added, with considerable success and was becoming popular in all departments now.

Any idea that a grand "shuffle" would follow the completion of the different courses was contradicted by the speaker, who outlined the methodical manner in which the pupils changed courses.

He showed that the students spent the majority of the day in their "home" room, and left only for special lessons.

EFFECTIVE IN VANCOUVER

The platoon system was proving particularly effective in Vancouver, Prof. Straight continued, saying that in that city several parent-teachers associations had requested the school board to organize more elementary schools on that line.

Personally he favored the method in junior high schools, he said.

The physical education department of any school also benefitted greatly from the platoon system, Professor Straight concluded, showing that specialists were required for coaching in the different athletic activities.

YOUTHS RETURN FROM MODEL AIRCRAFT MEET

Milton Angle Here With Two Oakland Boys From Detroit

Milton Angle of The Oakland Tribune arrived in the city yesterday with two Oakland boys, Herbert Owbridge and Paul Nichols, who are returning from the national model aircraft meet at Detroit. These boys are members of the Mariposa Model Airplane Club of Oakland, an organization composed entirely of champions. Herbert Owbridge, the older of the two placed fourth in the national meet while Nichols gained third place in the junior event.

The Mariposa Club has been in existence for over three and a half years. They have no officers in their clubs and no central organization, all the clubs being chapters in the American Model Aircraft League, the members being held together by a mutual interest in aviation. Mr. Owbridge stated that in Oakland city there were more than 100 clubs. In the south, the boys stated, they use the system of honor certificates, flights of a set number of seconds being required of the competitor before he is awarded the coveted prize.

During their short sojourn here the boys visited the official supply depot of the Victoria Model Aircraft League at Pilmley and Ritchie's.

Victoria Riflemen Take Major Honors At B.C.R.A. Prize Meet

THE SPORTS MIRROR

BOSTON now has a Babe Ruth. His name is Walter Berger, and a few years ago you could have seen him on the docks of San Francisco. He was walloping cargoes then; he is punishing pitchers now. And they say he is the best looking National League recruit of the season. Not since Ruth left Boston to shift for itself has the town seen such terrific slugging as that provided by Wally Berger. And not for years have the turnstiles clicked so rapidly. In a recent Sunday double-header with the New York Giants 43,000 people paid to enter Judge Emil Fuchs's ball yard. And with Berger waving his big bat in leadership, the Braves have come scurrying out of the cellar that was their domicile for years and are playing the kind of ball that makes seven other National League clubs nervous.

Berger, who is giving Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, a great run for the home run honors won't be twenty-five until October. He was born in the city where they shoot newspaper reporters. In June, 1927, he migrated to Pocatello, Idaho, and the pitchers started to move out. In ninety-two games he hit 139 times for 248 bases. In 1928 he broke camp and hied farther westward, landing in Los Angeles. That year he hit Coast League pitching for .327, poking out twenty home runs. Last year he doubled his home run output, and the Cub scouts began looking him over. Here enters the tragic chapter of Joe McCarthy's great mistake. Joe looked Berger over and decided he didn't want him for the Cubs.

Boston was looking for power and youth. As a result a deal was arranged whether Lester Bell, the Braves' third baseman, went to the Cubs. Art Delaney and George Harper of the Braves and a nice bundle of cash went to Los Angeles, and Walter Berger went to Boston. Joe McCarthy has been throwing shoes with feet in them at himself ever since. Bell flivvered out this season with a sore arm and Berger has been batting around .330, besides slapping the ball for the circuit on numerous and costly occasions.

Now comes that heavyweight from the canebrakes of Georgia with a mighty wallop that cannot be ignored. William "Young" Stribling, acrobat, aviator, dilly-dallyer and heavyweight threat. His career curiously is like Jack Sharkey's. He has been up there time after time ready to step out into a heavyweight title match, only to fall back just as the chance was about to be grasped. Once both he and Sharkey were up there together, and their unsatisfactory meeting in Miami was a blot upon both their records.

The other day in Chicago, Stribling did come through, knocking out Otto Von Porat in the first round. Anyone who can put the skids under Porat in the opening frame, cannot be ignored In the heavyweight reckonings the name of Young Stribling must be written again.

Stribling is now en route to London to meet Phil Scott and we will wait and see how the Georgian makes out against the "Leaning Tower."

* * *

Stribling's career has been peculiar, we have said, but it has also been interesting. He met the big Italian, Carnera twice, once in London and once in Paris. Both affairs ended in fouls with the score at one apiece Stribling hit Carnera low, while the Big Italian kept pounding away at the Georgian after the bell had sounded to lose the bout.

Away back in 1926, Stribling won a decision from Johnny Risko, but since has improved greatly. When Stribling goes into fight carefully, the result usually is terrible to watch. If he went out to fight Schmeling on that basis, it would be a good night to be at home tucked in bed. But if he followed the tactics he used against Von Porat, rushing out and socking from the bell it would no doubt be a good battle. Against some fighters Stribling has been a wrestler, a hugger, not risking the chance of taking one on the beak. Against others has has been a Dempsey. You never know what the young man is likely to do. He almost takes away Jack Sharkey's crown as the modern ring's most difficult enigma.

KING TUT WINS

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—King Tut, Minneapolis lightweight, yesterday evening won the judges' decision over Bruce Flowers, New Rochell, New York negro, in their ten-round outdoor bout here.

Major Richardson And Sgt. Brown Win Two Feature Events

Former Captures Macdonald Brier No. 1 by Single Point Over Grant of Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver; Richardson Scores 102 Out of Possible 105; Brown Wins New Westminster Match by Scoring Possible; Richardson, Last Year's Winner, Third; C. B. Hamber and Cpl. J. C. Parsons Lead Cadets.

By Times Special Representative

Sgt. S. S. Brown, a former Bisley veteran, led the way to all comers in the Westminster match, which was shot off at Heal's Range yesterday, when he ran up a total of 50 points to score the only possible of the match. Brown is a member of the B.C. Coast Brigade of Victoria, and to him goes the beautiful silver cup which was presented by the Corporation of New Westminster in 1923, the B.C.R.A. bronze medal and $15 in cash. The cup, in order to become a permanent possession, must be won twice. So far, no competitor has succeeded in getting his name on the trophy more than once.

Last year Major F. Richardson of the 5th B.C.C. Brigade C.A., captured first place in this competition, and up till near the end of the match yesterday it looked as if he was going to turn the trick and take the cup for keeps. The major had a fine 49 as the match drew to a close. Then came Brown's 50, and with it went Major Richardson's chances of duplicating last year's feat. Just before the competition ended Sgt. F. V. Richardson jumped into second place by handing in a better 49 score, and so to him went the $10 cash prize, while Major Richardson had to be contented with third place money, which amounted to $8. Strange to say, the men who carried off the first three prizes all belong to the B.C Coast Brigade, which is probably the oldest member of Victoria's present-day militia units, Sgt.-Major E. J. Read of the Garrison, Inspector Sandys-Wunch of the R.C.M.P., and Capt. F. Gardiner of the Vancouver Regiment, each tied for fourth place with 49. Each of these competitors received $5 as prize money.

REMARKABLE SCORES

Some of the scores which were compiled in this match were really remarkable, especially when one takes into consideration the fact that a deceptive cross-wind was blowing and heat mirages made the target almost invisible at times. Fortunately the wind was not strong enough to have much effect on the shooting, but the heat waves certainly played some mean tricks on a number of the competitors, and brought their scores down considerably.

Of the young cadets who were competing C. B. Hamber and Cpl. J. C. Parsons, of the University Corps, led with scores of 43. To these two boys went an award of $2 each. Sgt. R. D. Bristowe, also of the University Corps, won for himself a cash prize of $1 by handing in a score of 37.

The Tyro Match, restricted to tyros who are members of the B.C.R.A. and fired at 200 yards, in conjunction with the Macdonald Brier No. 1 competition, was captured by Bugler J. M. Blair of the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, with a total of 34 out of a possible 35. To Blair went first place money amounting to $10. Second prize also went to Vancouver, when Pte. M. D. Fisher, of the Seaforth Highlanders, handed in a card with a 33. Fisher collected $6 for his efforts. Capt. J. Tyrer of the Canadian Scottish of Victoria captured third place money with a 33, and with it went a cash prize of $4.

MAJOR RICHARDSON WINS

Living up to his reputation as one of Canada's leading riflemen, Major Frank Richardson, of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, walked off with the Macdonald Brier No. 1 competition, when he amassed the remarkable total of 102 out of a possible 105. On more than one occasion Major Richardson has had the honor of representing B.C. on the Canadian Bisley team, and by his performance yesterday he proved that he had lost none of his skill and cool-headedness, and that he could still hold his own with the best of them. The major was forced to fight to the bitter end, for Tom Grant, of the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, was right behind him all the way, and came home with a brilliant 101 to take second place money, amounting to $20. The winner took the B.C.R.A. silver medal and $25. This match was a particularly strenuous one. The competitors were obliged to fire seven shots from the 200, 500 and 600 yards ranges. When the marksmen moved from the 500 to 600 yards range, Major Richardson was one up on Grant, their respective scores being 68 and 67. Both men continued their remarkable shooting on the last round, scoring bull for bull. The major slipped on his last shot, and instead of a bull only registered an inner, for a grand total of 102. This was Grant's opportunity. He had been firing bulls consistently, and one more would have tied the match, necessitating a shoot-off. But, like Richardson, the Vancouver lad became slightly erratic and was only able to score an inner, for a total of 101. It was indeed an exciting match, and easily the best of the day.

JOEY MADILL IS TOO CLEVER FOR TOWNSEND

Chicago Welterweight Wins Six of Ten Rounds Against Vancouver Boy

Townsend Makes Game Effort to Score Knockout in Tenth; Result a Surprise

Los Angeles, Cal., July 9.—John Madill, Chicago welterweight, proved too fast for Billy Townsend, hard-hitting Vancouver fighter, in ten rounds yesterday evening, taking six rounds and breaking even in two. Keeping himself well out of the way of Townsend's hefty rights and lefts, Madill kept well in front after the Vancouverite had annexed the first two frames through rushing aggressive tactics.

Madill's left hooks to the face and body interspersed with choppy rights to the head were effective and the decision was well received by the crowd. There were no knockdowns although Madill landed a punishing right to the chin in the first and again in the seventh.

Townsend staged a game rally in the tenth round and tried hard to tag out the Chicago boxer, but could not connect and did no better than break even. Madill repeated ducked under Townsend's vicious right swings and came up generally with left hooks to the face.

During the middle rounds, Townsend missed repeatedly as he tried for knockout. The result was a surprise, most of the fans expecting the slugging Townsend to repeat previous victories here.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS AND CHALLENGERS OUT FOR HONORS FOR J.B.A.A.

Here are three of the doubles crews on which the James Bay Athletic Association is placing its hopes for first honors in the rowing classic at Brentwood on Friday and Saturday. In the top picture are Dan Moses and Ray Ditchburn, who last year stroked their way to victory in the senior doubles at Esquimalt. They will defend their title on Saturday. Moses stroked the winning boat in the junior doubles at Harrison Lake in 1927 and rowed in the winning senior doubles in Portland in 1928. Last year he set the pace for the Plumerfelt Trophy winners in the club fours and was stroke for the first crew to win the Through Victoria Fours for the Sons of Canada Cup on Dominion Day. At present he holds the post of club crew captain.

Ditchburn, his partner last year, also figured in the Victoria junior fours victory at Esquimalt in 1929.

In the centre picture above, are Jack King and A. R. Wood, winners of the 140-pound doubles on May 24. They will team up in the tackweight doubles.

Below are shown Hugh Francis and Art Speed, junior doubles hopes. This pair won the Through Victoria doubles for the City of Victoria trophy on Dominion Day.

OVER the WALL

More changes in the standing of the Big Six turned up yesterday as Al Simmons gained the batting leadership of the American League and Frank O'Doul tightened his hold on the top of the National.

Simmons only held his own in the average, remaining at .387, by hitting three times in eight attempts, but Lou Gehrig made but one hit in seven times at bat and dropped six points.

O'Doul hitting two out of three, added three more points to his average, while Chuck Klein registered a one-point gain with two hits in four times up. Paul Waner barely held third place by hitting once in five tries. Babe Ruth was idle.

Senior Amateur League Ball Teams Clash at Royal Athletic To-night

Protest of Elks on Last Game With Jokers Will Be Heard This Evening

Eagles and Jokers will be the opposing teams in the Senior Amateur League ball game scheduled at the Royal Athletic Park to-night, commencing at 6.15 o'clock. In order to keep pace with the Sons and Elks, first and second teams respectively, the Jokers need a victory, while the Eagles who are occupying the cellar, are badly in need of a win.

Following the game a meeting of the board of governors of the Victoria Senior Amateur League will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to render a decision on the protest filed by the Elks on their game last Friday with the Jokers. The Elks are protesting against the decision of the umpire in calling the game in the middle of the ninth inning, giving the Jokers a victory. The Elks were leading at the end of the eighth. The board of governors is composed of the following: R. Ramsdale, A. McGavin and R. Dowswell.

Ancient "Rabbit" Proves Sensation Of National Loop

Veteran Shortstop Playing Brilliant Game for Boston and Leads Braves to Victory Over Brooklyn Yesterday; National League First Division Clubs Experience Rough Day; Washington Turns in Ninth Straight Victory to Gain on Athletics Who Split Twin Bill With Yankees.

One reason why the Boston Braves are still in the thick of the National League battle is to be found in 150-odd pounds of unadulterated shortstop bearing the imposing name of Walter James Vincent Maranville otherwise known as "Rabbit." The little baseball ancient, who has spent eighteen of his thirty-seven summers playing major league ball is having one of the best seasons of his long career.

When he was one of the main cogs of Boston's amazing team of 1914, his batting average was only .246, and his mark for his eighteen major league years is .262, but this season he is hitting above the .300 mark and is fielding right along with the league's best. When the Braves stepped out yesterday to trounce the league-leading Brooklyn Robins, 4 to 1, Maranville merely made two of Boston's nine hits, scored once, handled eight fielding chances without an error, and started three of Boston's four double plays.

The shortstop had some assistance in stopping the Robins and leaving them only a half game ahead of the idle Chicago Cubs. Tom Zachary, who was considered too old for the American League this season, pitched a great game, shutting out the Robins except for Johnny Frederick's homer, while Wally Berger came through with his twenty-fourth circuit blow of the year, gaining a tie with Hack Wilson and Chuck Klein for the National League lead.

LEADERS IN TROUBLE

Completing the National League's day, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia made it a bad day for the first division. The Phillies, with Phil Collins on the mound, humbled the New York Giants, 8 to 1, pounding three pitchers for fourteen hits, while "Shufflin' Phil" held the giants to ten thoroughly scattered blows.

The Pirates kept the St. Louis Cardinals a game and one-half back of the third place Giants by slamming out a 10 to 5 victory.

Washington continued to lead the American League parade with its ninth straight victory. The Senators, already in first place by several percentage points, beat out the Boston Red Sox 6 to 5, and finally gained a tie with the Athletics for the top, where games are concerned. The world champions lost a half game by dividing their double header with the New York Yankees.

Fred Marberry won his fifth game in Washington's streak of seventeen victories in eighteen games and made it sixteen, Senators pitchers to go the route in that time. Heiner Manush aided him with a homer that produced the deciding runs. George Walberg proved his sore arm something of a myth against the Yankees in the first game, holding them to three hits for a 4 to 0 triumph.

Red Huffing kept pace with him for the last eight and one-third innings for the Athletics had driven Henry Johnson to cover The second contest was something of a slugging match with George Pipgras outlasting four Athletic hurlers for a 9 to 4 victory.

SOX MOVE UP

Chicago's White Sox rose a notch in the American League standing, going from seventh place to sixth as Ted Lyons gave them a 3 to 2 victory over Detroit, while the St. Louis Browns were taking a 12 to 5 beating at the hands of the Cleveland Indians. Lyons not only pitched effectively against Detroit, but drove in two of the runs with a triple in the second inning.

The Indians showed a considerable recovery from their slump by hammering three Brownie pitchers for fourteen hits, including two homers, while young Mel Harder pitched with sufficient effectiveness to score his seventh victory of the year.

Classy Field To Seek City Net Titles At Kingston Street

Weinstein Likely Entrant In Tennis Tourney Saturday

Famous California Star Now in City; Competition for Men's Title Will Be Keenest in Years With Hocking, Edwards, Cunningham, Campbell, Corfield and Gordon Likely To Be Seeded; Entries Close Thursday.

Entries for the city clay court tennis championships will close Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. Already 100 entries have been received while the record is expected to be exceeded by closing time. Announcement was made yesterday that Irving Weinstein, star California player, is a possible entry. He arrived in town yesterday and worked out at the Victoria Club with John Edwards. He is a beautiful player and if he enters will be the biggest drawing card the tournament has had since the visit of E. T. Annett in 1926.

Weinstein played here with the University of California team in 1922, and was considered one of the best players from the state of California. Playing from the base-line with sound strokes from either side and equipped with a good service, he can only be beaten from the net, and his passing shots would soon shake the confidenec of most net players. His playing in Victoria would be most welcome. Aside from the possible entry of Weinstein, the men's division will have the hardest competition since its inauguration. At least eight men will have to be seeded, and there will be about eight more than are able to extend the likely seeded players. The women will not be as strong as last year or as in other years, with the exodus to Toronto of the Leeming sisters, who are going east for the Canadian championships.

Ross Hocking, defending champion, will most likely be seeded at the head of the men's list, although he has not won anything this year and has been beaten by several local players in recent campaigns. It will be difficult to select the next three players, but it is probable that Gerald Cunningham will get the choice, as he was the runner-up last year, and has defeated the first two Victoria men in league matches. John Edwards, Victoria Club champion, will likely be the third with Marsh Gordon, former champion, fourth, Don Campbell fifth, Reg. Corfield sixth, Ronny Kirkbride seventh, and possibly Steve Jones, Eric McCallum, Hugo Rayment, Paul Phillips or Bob Schwengers as the eighth seeded man. Weinstein would be assigned one of the highest positions if he definitely enters. Judging from the above players the men singles will be a tough event to win. The first five players are just about even, having all defeated each other in matches this year with the exception of Cunningham, who has only lost to Don Campbell, and then on grass. He will have quite a following when the event commence on Saturday.

NEW WOMEN'S CHAMP

There will be quite a scramble for the women's singles crown as none of last year's four semi-finalists are likely to be entered, Marjorie and Hope Leeming, Mary Campbell and Marjorie MacFarlane not being on hand to take part in the singles. Mrs. John Edwards, first ranking player of Nova Scotia, will be a heavy favorite to win the honors, as she is very much at home on the clay courts. Doreen Swayne, Mona Miller, Helen Campbell and Velda Rithet should de very well in this event.

Marsh Gordon and Eric MacCallum will be on deck to defend their doubles title which they have won for many years. Last year they were taken to five sets, but, as usual, came through. They will be seeded first with Cunningham and Hocking, Duncan champions, second. The latter pair have defeated the first named pair in the league, but dropped the club championship to the older pair. John Edwards and Corfield, are most likely to be the third seeded team, with Don Campbell and I. M. Isaacs fourth. Several other league teams will make the going hard for the seeded teams. Ronny Kirkbride and Paul Phillips will be another strong team.

There will be a larger entry than usual in the men's sections, but the women's will be quite small. No doubt the entry will be swelled in the women's singles and doubles by Thursday, but at this date the entry is quite small.

The mixed doubles team of Hope Leeming and Eric MacCallum, who have won the title for the last four years, will be broken up through the absence of Miss Leeming. They defeated Mary Campbell and Ross Hocking last year in the finals. Miss Campbell and Hocking are entered again this year. Doreen Swayne and Ronny Kirkbride, Peggy Jackson and Reg. Corfield and Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards are all capable of reaching the finals.

The LIFE STORY of MAX SCHMELING

by WERNER LAUFER

COPYRIGHT, 1930, NEA SERVICE, INC.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second chapter of the Life Story of Max Schmeling, new heavyweight champion. The first installment told of his early boyhood days.

CHAPTER 2

Max Schmeling's first job was in the advertising department of a Hamburg newspaper.

The boy had been all for getting a job on the piers, where he could be in daily contact with the ships, whose romantic sails brought them from every part of the world. Here he could have more money than as an apprentice advertising man, the boy argued, but Frau Amanda Schmeling thought that one man of the sea was quite enough in the family, so Maxie went in for advertising.

Laufer

Among his duties were hustling proofs and lugging metal mounting blocks around the city. This was a pleasant relief from the confinement of his little desk in the office. The physical inactivity of the advertising office irked the boy, but the family needed his support and he stayed on.

Every bit of time off was devoted to athletics. Max had gone in for Association football in a large way. His fame on the gridiron had spread throughout the city. Maxie had attended a street carnival, where one of the features was an athletic show. The wrestling acts attracted him and he was giving thought to going in for this strenuous sport.

Boxing was still almost unknown in Germany, but Schmeling had read stories and seen pictures of the bouts held by soldiers in the American Army of Occupation. They had not impressed him greatly. Football was his game and it was speedily developing his body into a smooth-working muscular machine.

About this time Max Schmeling Sr. obtained his release from the navy. Now there was more money coming into the family pocketbook and the job in the advertising department became more and more monotonous. Max argued with his father about getting out of it and going into some line where he could let his strength speak for him. The father, a toiler himself, held the view that his son should earn his living in a white collar, so Max stuck to the office.

In a certain office building in downtown Hamburg, where Max often took proofs, there presided at the elevator a ferocious janitor. He was honored by a membership in the Landswehr and was proud of the spikey mustache that went with it. To office boys carrying proofs he was poison. Theirs was not to ascend the heights by electricity—theirs was to climb the steep and wearisome stairway.

One day Maxie blithely parked himself in the old boy's lift and firmly, but politely called his number.

"Sieben," said the boy.

"Raus!" roared the janitor and accompanied the order with a push that sent Germany's own future heavyweight champion of the world skidding across the corridor.

But Maxie came back and as he did, the well-scrubbed marble floor came up to kiss Herr Janitor on the spikey whiskers. It was Max Schmeling's first K. O. The tough old boy couldn't have answered to a count of 80. It was the first time, the boy had hit a man in earnest. When his office heard about it, Max lost his job. But he was secretly glad. It gave him an idea.

Family affairs were nearlyy normal once more. The Schmelings could now manage very well without him. He longed to travel and within a few days Der Max delivered his ultimatum to his parents. After a few tearful sessions, they gave their consent. Max was going adventuring. With a little money pinned in his undershirt, Max kissed his mother, sister and brother. A silent handshake was the best the father could master.

When Max closed the door behind him, he felt a change had occurred. He was no longer the boy—he was a man

LINEHAM IN GREAT FORM AT COLWOOD

Victoria Amateur Breezes Around Eighteen Holes in 68, Two Under Par

Goes Out in 32 and Back in 36; Course Record of 70 Is Held Jointly

Harold Lineham, crack Victoria amateur golfer, was in great form yesterday when he waltzed around the difficult Colwood course in 68, two under par figures. Lineham was playing in a foursome with Walter Hall, K. C. Allen and Walter Parry. Lineham's score was two under the course record held jointly by Walter Pursey, Seattle pro, and Bill Savory, amateur from the Sound city.

Another feature of the foursome was that the best ball score for Lineham and Hall was 64, which is remarkable.

HAS FOUR BIRDIES

On the outgoing nine, Lineham snatched off three birdies and reached the turn in 32, three under par figures. His under par holes were the first, third and fifth. Starting off on the homeward route, Lineham went over par for the first time on the tenth hole, when he required a five. On the next five holes the Colwood flash chalked up four pars and a birdie and looked as if he was good for a 66.

Three-putting the sixteenth and eighteenth greens cost Lineham plenty as he had to be contented with two fives on these holes. His card follows:

Out ..... 343 344 344—32
In ..... 543 343 545—36—68

COURTENAY WINS EXTRA INNING GAME

Walk to Cummins in Tenth Gives Up-islanders 5 to 4 Win Over Schafers

Dave Grey Pitches Fine Ball For Courtenay; Home Club Ties Score in Ninth

Special to The Times

Courtenay, July 9.—The touring Schafer Brothers' baseball team from Montesano, Wash., visited here Monday night and played an exhibition game with the local team on the Lewis Park diamond before a big crowd of spectators. The locals won by a score of 5 to 4. It was an exciting game of ball with plenty of hitting, to the delight of the fans, and comparatively few errors.

At the end of the ninth inning the score was even. Schafers failed to register in their half of the tenth. When Courtenay came to bat Grey was retired at first, Dixon singled, Dobson flied out and Hunden doubled. Glispey, who had replaced Jackstadt on the mound for the visitors in the seventh, deliberately walked Toyo and a walk to Cummins gave the locals the winning run.

Dave Grey of Vancouver assisted the local team and pitched a good game of ball with Toyo on the receiving end. For the visitors Jackstadt and Lynch did the heavy work up to the seventh when they were relieved by Glispey and Aust. Phil Piper of Nanaimo was the umpire.

Scores follow:

	R.	H.	E.
Schafers	4	11	2
Courtenay	5	10	3

The teams were:

Schafers—McClurkin lf, Connors cf, Almsted 3b, Kalahan 2b, Lind ss, Wiley 1b, Chilla rf, Jackstadt p, Lynch c, Glispey p, Aust c.

Major Leagues In Joint Meeting To Discuss Minors

Chicago, July 9.—Considering the situation so important as to warrant the unprecedented procedure of a joint session in midsummer, club owners of the major leagues gathered to-day to discuss present and prospective relations with the minors, especially in connection with the draft or "selective system."

The possibility loomed, that the magnates, in mood for drastic action, would serve an ultimatum on the minor league forces, leading either to a new agreement or a wider breach than now appears to exist.

Jones Makes a Discovery

"Variety is the spice of life" quoted my friend, Jones. "Yes," I agreed, "go on". "Well, for instance, I used to be a great pipe smoker. I am yet, as a fact. But now I smoke a cigar occasionally—a Marguerite, foil-wrapped cigar, and I enjoy the change immensely. I find I have missed a good many hours' enjoyment by not smoking an occasional cigar". "Well", said I, "you look as if you had a good many years of enjoyment before you still."

"That seemed to please him. He gave me a Marguerite."

ALLEGED "JAIL SMASHER" WILL NOW FACE TRIAL

Vernon H. Meadows Is Committed For Trial By Higher Court

Broke Closet Bowl and Bedstead and Tore Open Padded Cell, Say Police

Vernon H. Meadows continued his "jail-smashing" activities at the city lock-up yesterday, according to a new charge laid in the City Police Court this morning.

Damage to the extent of $215 was done by the man, evidence submitted at the hearing indicated. Meadows was yesterday charged with damaging windows and bedding to the amount of $50.

Meadows did not deny he had done the damage, expressing, in fact, his satisfaction over the accomplishment in what he termed, "giving somebody some work." The man was originally arrested for creating a disturbance by shouting, but since being jailed has taken to breaking things, according to police.

WARBLING IN JAIL

Prior to the hearing this morning, Meadows could be heard in the cells, warbling away to himself and at some stages endeavoring to imitate a saxophone. He has been medically examined and declared mentally fit, police state.

He was charged to-day with wilfully damaging the padded cell in the station, a bedstead and closet bowl.

BOWL SHATTERED

According to evidence of Sergeant T. Hall, Constable C. Cremer and F. R. Woolsey, the accused was put in a cell following his appearance in court yesterday and shortly after, attention of the officers was drawn by a loud noise in the lock up. They found the accused in his cell with part of the bedstead broken and the closet bowl shattered. He was removed to the padded cell, where it was thought he could do no damage.

About an hour later, when the jailer visited the padded cell, he found the accused standing up to his waist in excelsior. The padding all around the walls had been torn down and the excelsior strewn around about three feet deep.

William Champion testified it would cost about $150 to replace the padding in the cell.

PLEASED TO HELP

"I am pleased to make work for somebody," was the accused's comment.

W. W. Fridham, plumber, said the closet-bowl would cost $50.

"Are you very busy at your work these days?" asked the accused.

"Fairly busy," said witness.

"Well, carry on the good work. I'm glad you got the job," said Meadows.

The Magistrate ordered the man committed for trial.

BAND CONCERT AIDS SOLARIUM

Fine Programme By Shriners and Male Choir Last Night

Throngs of Victorians and visitors to the city listened with evident delight to the excellent programme of music given at the Parliament Buildings yesterday evening by the Gizeh Temple Shrine Band, under the direction of Bandmaster James M. Miller, in conjunction with the Victoria Male Choir under the baton of Frank Tupman. A collection taken up in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium realized the gratifying sum of $136.28.

The concert was the second of the series given voluntarily by the Shrine Band in aid of local charities, and the next of the series will be staged at the same place on Wednesday, July 23. Enthusiastic applause greeted each item of the programme, which was as follows: March, "Crosley March." Filmore; overture, "Fountain of Youth." King; male choruses (a) "Comrades' Song of Hope," Adams, (b) "Cossack," Moniusko; waltz, "Wedding of the Winds," Hall; male choruses, (a) "Come Back to Erin," arranged by Fletcher, (b) "Buccaneers," Candish, (c) "Mary," Richardson; soprano solos, (a) "Sing, Joyous Bird," Gantz, (b) "Wake Up," Phelps, Mrs. Arthur Dowell; plantation songs, "The Sunny South," Lampe; characteristic intermezzo, "In a Monastery Garden," Ketelby; male choruses (a) "Heah Dem Bells," Strickland, (b) "O Peaceful Night," German, (c) "The British Grenadiers," Wood; selection, "June Time," Fulton; march, "On the Square," Panella; community hymn, "Abide With me."

Both the band and the choir received many congratulations upon their enterprise in staging such a delightful concert, and thus doing a dual community service in providing high-class entertainment and at the same time helping a very worthy cause.

Inventor Had to Work When He Was Only Six

When Elias Howe was six years old he went to work, and he worked all day long. He didn't know what it was to play. He was the seventh son in a very large and very poor family. All the children had to work, in order to have enough to eat.

His father owned a mill and could not afford to pay for grown men to help him, so the children worked in the mill. Little Elias put wire teeth in cards to be used for combing out wool. It was tiresome work, but he never thought of complaining.

He stayed in the mill until he was eleven. Then his father suddenly became worried because he was so pale and thin. So he sent him to work for a farmer, thinking the outdoor life would be good for him.

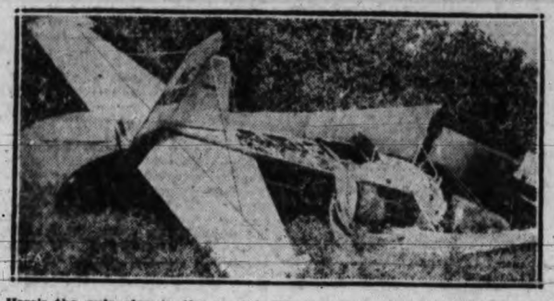

But Elias was not strong enough to do farm work, so the farmer sent him home, and he had to go to work in the mill again.

Elias Howe, born in Massachusetts, July 9, 1819, was the inventor of the sewing machine.

FIND PLANE OF LOST AIRMAIL FLYER, MISSING FOR SIX MONTHS

Here's the only clue to the most baffling mystery the airmail service has ever known—a pilot who sailed away into the sky and was never heard from again. Los Angeles postoffice inspectors are shown above checking the mail taken from the wrecked plane of Maury Graham, Western Air Express pilot, who disappeared six months ago, and which has just been found in a remote mountain pass near Cedar City, Utah. Below is his wrecked plane. It is believed Graham wandered away in a blizzard and died.

FOUR HURT AS CARS COLLIDE ON BAD HILL

L. Branch Has Right Leg Broken When Autos Crash on Rithet's Hill

L. Branch, 117 Superior Street, sustained a broken right leg and three other persons suffered minor injuries when two automobiles collided head-on yesterday afternoon on Rithets Hill, North Quadra Street.

The cars, driven by C. Brand, 1413 Stanley Avenue, and Norman Harrup, 3628 Fernwood Road, were practically demolished in the crash.

Brand sustained cuts about the forehead and lips and lost several teeth.

Harrup was shaken up badly, and Mrs. Harrup, who was riding with him, suffered bruises about the forehead and was severely shaken up.

Branch was riding in the car driven north by Brand. Nearing the foot of the hill, the car apparently swerved and collided head-on with the approaching Harrup car, according to the Saanich police report.

Both front wheels were torn off the Harrup car. The left mudguard, running board and rear fender were demolished and the roof was broken in two. The radiator of the Brand car was pushed back onto the engine, one wheel twisted off and the front mudguards and axle badly wrecked.

The injured received first aid treatment at the Saanich Health Centre where they were taken by Saanich police officers, who saw the accident from a distance.

BEATTY URGES NO IMMIGRATION NOW FROM U.S.

Toronto, July 9.—Immigration from the United States and Europe should be stopped for the time being at least, said E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in an interview here to-day. Mr. Beatty would not include on the ban, however, "those British immigrants who bringe their own capital and can proceed under their own steam."

"Unemployment is bad in the building trades I think because the usual projectors of big buildings are holding back until the wheat situation clears up," he said. "But if we have a crop this year and it moves out in a normal way, which it should, unless there is a permanent resistance in Europe, which I doubt, the situation in Canada should clear up."

Nonagenarian Will Go Into Peace Country

Thos. Hilliard, Ninety-year-old Traveler, Seeing Great West in Evening of Life

Canadian and Australian Capital to Supply Argentine With New Reaper

"We are tremendously impressed with your wonderful western country, your unequalled scenery and your hospitable people," declared Thomas Hilliard of Waterloo, Ont., on his return from the Butchart Gardens this morning with other members of the New Outlook Party.

Mr. Hilliard is a nonagenarian who has seen Canada "grow up" and, in the evening of life, he is touring the country with a desire to learn more of its gerat resources.

"I passed the ninetieth milestone the other day, and am still able to enjoy the best in life," said the nonagenarian when asked how he was standing the stress of travel.

He went on to point out that he was going with the party into the heart of the Peace River country to see for himself something of this new territory which is hailed as the coming grain belt of a grain producing country.

ON TO SPIRIT LAKE

In heading for the northern interior of the country the New Outlook Party, composed of 250 people, will proceed to Prince Rupert from Vancouver, and after making a short stay at Jasper Park Lodge, will continue to Edmonton and on to Spirit Lake in the Peace River country, from which point they will travel in cars several hundred miles to the northward.

"Yes, I propose to take in the whole of the tour," said Mr. Hilliard when asked if he planned to go beyond Spirit Lake.

WESTERN HOSPITALITY

He is enthusiastic about the tour. "We have been most hospitably treated at every point we have visited," he said. The object of the New Outlook tours, he went on to say, was to promote cordiality and good-will, and in this they were succeeding.

Mr. Hilliard has led a very active life. He founded the Dominion Life Assurance Company in Waterloo forty-one years ago, and continued as president of the company up to the time of his retirement, a short time ago.

Sixteen years ago he founded the Waterloo Trust and Savings Company, and built the organization up until to-day the corporation holds in trust some $10,000,000 of the public money.

Mr. Hilliard is a strong champion of industrial development, and in this connection he is a great booster for his own city. He spoke of the amalgamation of the Waterloo Manufacturing Company with Australian interests, now known as the Sunshine Manufacturing Company, which is building a factory to manufacture the new combination reaper and thresher, to supply, not only the Canadian market, but also the Argentine market for the latest type of harvesting machinery.

The city of Waterloo has approved by-laws guaranteeing the company fixed assessment, and when Mr. Hilliard left home the concern was preparing to commence construction of a plant that would employ 2,000 people. "There will be no unemployment in Waterloo when that plant gets into operation," he observed.

RAID ON HOME SENDS THREE TO HOSPITAL

Vancouver Police Hunt Two Men Who Injured Woman and Children

Vancouver, July 9.—A young mother and her two babies are lying in St. Paul's Hospital here in a critical condition, victims of a vicious raid on their home by two men yesterday afternoon.

The woman is Mrs. C. H. Scheidel, aged twenty-four, who lives at 3028 Grant Street. She and her infants are believed to be suffering from the effects of some drug forcibly administered by the men who, after the mother had lost consciousness, wrecked the interior of the residence.

The attack was made about 1.10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and when Mrs. Scheidel's husband returned home at midnight he found his wife and children in a state of collapse.

The story told police by the woman is that there was a knock on the door of her home. She found there two men, who asked if her husband was at home. She replied he was not.

HOUSE DAMAGED

They immediately pushed their way into the house, police were told, and forced a cloth, apparently saturated with some drug, over the woman's face.

The interior of the house was practically wrecked. Pictures had been torn from the walls and burned; rugs had been wrenched from the floor, furniture smashed; clothing of the occupants had been cut into ribbons. Mrs. Scheidel's purse was looted of $15 and burned.

It was this sight which met the husband when he returned home.

WINNIPEG MAN TRIES TO KILL WIFE AND SELF

Demented Foundry Worker Runs Amok With Razor; Little Hope For Recovery

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Man. July 9.—John Borowski, twenty-six-year-old foundry worker, ran amuk with a razor to-day slashing his bride of a year and himself so viciously that both will probably die. No reason could be attributed for the outburst.

Borowski had designs only on his own life when he took up his razor in their housekeeping rooms. He slashed his throat. But Teenie, his twenty-year-old bride, tried to snatch the razor and succeeded only in attracting her husband's wrath. Borowski attacked her with the blade, inclicting probable fatal wounds about her neck and head.

Mrs. Borowski's screams brought other inmates of the house to the scene. They arrived just in time to see the dsmented man take another hack at his own throat and fall senseless over the body of his young wife.

The pair were rushed to hospital and scant hopes were held this afternoon for their recovery. They were described as a "happy couple" by neighbors.

HIGHER DUTY ON GRAPE JUICE NOW EXPECTED

Ottawa, July 9.—Since little or no opposition developed before the Tariff Advisory Board yesterday in its hearing on the proposal to increase the customs duty on grape juice concentrates, it is not improbable an order-in-council will shortly be passed making such an increase effective. Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, is on the prairies, but it is understood he is being furnished with a resume of the proceedings of yesterday.

At the hearing yesterday the expected opposition of the Ontario vinners did not develop.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Sherwood of 1116 Harwood Street, Vancouver, and Miss Joan Pugh of Lillooet are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. R Sherwood, 3240 Quadra Street.

Police Give "Porky" a Ride; He Gets Mean

"Found—One porcupine, plenty of quills," was the advertisement released from police headquarters this morning after the new patrol wagon had been taken apart and put together again and Driver Syd Wilkinson had finished picking quills out of his right hand.

Bristling with sharp quills, the animal was found shortly after 9 o'clock in the garden of Mrs. W. E. Wells, 132 Eberts Street. Driver Wilkinson tested the quills when he grabbed it by the tail and put it into the wagon.

While riding down town the porcupine crawled into the hole in the patrol wagon provided for the stretcher. "Cheek," he chuckled as Wilkinson tried to take him out. "Double cheek," said Wilkinson after fifteen minutes work in removing the top of one of the patrol seats to get him.

This afternoon he is on display in the Pet Shop, Government Street, while naturalists police and others interested are wondering whence he came.

MISSING SHIP MASTER'S BODY FOUND TO-DAY

Remains of Capt. W. H. Gillen, Lost in Vancouver June 3, Taken From Water

Was Well-known in B.C. Coastal Waters; Employed By Hudson's Bay Co.

Vancouver, July 9.—The body of Captain W. H. Gillen, aged fifty-eight, Hudson's Bay Co. shipmaster, who disappeared on June 3, was found shortly after 10 o'clock this morning in the waters of Burrard Inlet, near the North Vancouver Ferry Wharf. The remains were found near where the captain's ship was lying when he disappeared.

Captain Gillen was last seen on June 3 when he left his ship, the Old Maid No. 2, to go to town. City police dragged the water in the area where his boat lay, but without result.

Captain Gillen, when he disappeared, was about to sail for the Arctic in the vessel of which he had been master for the last two years.

The clothing of the body contained a considerable sum of money and a number of papers, by which the remains were identified. The body was removed to the city morgue.

Captain Gillen was very well known and highly regarded in shipping circles and on shore. Born in Nova Scotia, he was reared for the sea and came west as a young man to take up the adventurous calling of sealing. Big, strong and a splendid seaman, he served as mate or master on a number of sealing craft. Since the close of that business he followed British Columbia coasting.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS DISCUSSED BY CANDIDATE

Stuart Henderson Addresses Employees of Lemon, Gonnason at Noon Hour

Attributes Unemployment to Wheat Surplus and Investment of Funds Abroad

Unemployment formed the chief topic of a convincing talk by Stuart Henderson to the employees of the Lemon, Gannason Lumber Company during the lunch hour to-day. The Liberal candidate also spoke briefly on different other aspects of the present election and finished by answering the various questions put to him in a thoroughly satisfactory manner.

Mr. Henderson attributed the present depression in the employment situation to the huge surplus of unsold wheat in the Dominion and also to the neglect of the country by the larger banking interests who have persisted in investing their funds in the States. Many Canadians have followed their lead and have lost a large part of their capital during the recent slumps in New York, thus lessening the supply of available money in Canada and injuring the prosperity of the country. When asked what the Liberals proposed to do in order to avert greater unemployment during the coming winter, he referred them to Mr. King's speech on Monday night in which the Premier had stated that if he was returned he would take steps to relieve the situation when appealed to by the provincial governments and not before.

"Unemployment falls under provincial jurisdiction. It is up to the Conservative administration in B.C. to do away with unemployment in the Province. If they are unable to do this they should appeal to Ottawa. Our government can do nothing until it is asked for aid," stated Mr. Henderson.

He then went on to explain the effects of the Liberal trade treaties and also the British preference and countervailing clauses in the Dunning budget. Canadians are able to buy goods far more cheaply through the exchange effected by these treaties while the preference to the Mother Country will help imperial relations as well as commerce.

Mr. Henderson will speak to-morrow at the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Company.

LONG TUNNEL IS DRIVEN FOR POWER SCHEME

Last Wall of Rock in Vancouver Bridge River Bore Is Removed

Vancouver, July 8.—Two and half years' labor and the expenditure of $1,750,000 culminated at 3.26 o'clock yesterday evening when the last wall of rock in the two-and-a-half-mile tunnel from Bridge River to the Seton Lake site of the B.C. Electric Railway Company's new hydro-electric development was broken by a charge of dynamite.

The great bore is the first accomplishment of the tremendous project for power generation, of which the first unit will cost $14,000,000. An army of men was employed in driving the tunnel.

Col. W. W. Foster, president of Pacific Engineers Ltd., contracting company in charge of this work, and E. E. Carpenter, consulting engineer to the B.C. Electric Railway Company, watched the "break through."

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Winnipeg, July 9.—Wheat: the wheat market, apparently has developed into a weather affair, with considerable apprehension existing in regard to the spring wheat crop both in western Canada and the United States. The market opened steady and about unchanged, but the short covering movement that was going on yesterday was continuing again to-day and despite persistent selling by the pool prices gradually advanced until they were about 2 cents over the close yesterday. There were a few light, scattered showers in the west the past twenty-four hours, but these were insignificant in the face of extremely high temperatures that prevailed all over the three prairie provinces, running from 88 to 99, the highest being in southern Saskatchewan and southern Alberta, and where the crops are suffering mostly from the lack of insufficient moisture.

Temperatures were extremely high again to-day with little relief in sight in the shape of moisture, but temperatures in Saskatchewan may be a little cooler on Thursday. There was also some buying by Chicago interest while commission house business was on the long side. In addition to the pool selling, terminal elevator interests were also fair sellers. There was no export business of any account over night, sales being confined to a few odd lots overnight. The demand for cash wheat was moderate and prices about unchanged with no pressure of offerings. The weather in the southwest continues very favorable for harvesting which is making excellent progress, and the quality of the new crop appeared as excellent, which puts it in serious competition with Manitoba's, and with Chicago July selling at a discount of 6½ cents under Winnipeg July, the U.S. appears to be getting the bulk of the export business. There were also some rust reports coming from south of the International Boundary. Wheat closed 1 to 1¼ higher after easing off slightly at the finish with a little profit taking by longs in evidence.

Coarse grains—These markets were mostly firmer, but the pool was liquidating in these markets as well as in wheat. Cash business very dull and featureless. Oats closed ¾ higher to ¼ lower, barley ⅜ to ½ higher, rye ⅜ to ¼ higher.

Flax—This market was a little firmer.

Chicago, July 9.—Wheat: The market showed a strong tone to-day, with the northwest and Canadian news affecting prices, and demonstrating that there is still a latent buying power in the market which would be effective in case the situation in that quarter became more critical.

High temperatures if continued will create a great deal of anxiety at this time, as much of the spring wheat area is still in poor shape to stand a siege of hot weather. Unfavorable developments in that quarter would probably also incite much more active export buying, especially as French and Italian reports are still unfavorable while European buyers have permitted their stocks to decline in assurance of big offerings from this side continuing. With the farm board agencies holding so much of the old wheat off the market, and a holding tendency in many sections of the winter wheat belt, the movement is likely to be smaller than expected. Primary arrivals were 1,888,000 against 2,385,000 bushels a year ago. Local receipts reports acceptances of 105,000 bushels. The forecast was for generally fair and warmer weather in this country and Canada except for slightly cooler and unsettled in North Dakota. Wheat in a large area of North Dakota is said to have declined in condition the last few weeks. Export trade was said to have been good, but figures on sales rather vague. Believe the market situation in the next few weeks holds greater possibilities on the buying side than on the other.

Corn: Hot and dry weather in the southwest has continued for a long time, and in Nebraska high temperatures have prevailed for a week, with hot conditions also in the northern portions of the belt. These conditions renewed the buying demand for corn and sent prices soaring, shorts being active with considerable commission house buying as well. The country sold corn on the rally, indicating some increase in the movement, but stocks are light and no heavy run is indicated until after small grains harvest. The critical period for the new crop is now being entered. Primary arrivals were 498,000 bushels vs. 742,000 bushels a year ago. The country sold about 100,000 to arrive. Pending weather developments look for two-sided market.

Oats: Rallied with other grains. Cash demand fair and offerings tight. Oats will be affected by any adverse crop developments northwest.

Rye: Advanced sharply with wheat, there being little pressure.

GRAIN MARKETS ERRATIC ON HOT WEATHER REPORTS

George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, has issued a warning addressed to farmers that they should be careful not to glut the terminals with shipments of the on-coming wheat crop.

"Farmers who are not pressed to sell their product immediately and intend holding it," he said, "should not over-burden terminal markets with their shipments to storage."

He explained that when terminal storage is filled, or approaches filling, the margin between cash wheat and futures will widen as it did last year. Thus, he said, the farmer who must sell now would be penalized without in any way benefiting the farmer who holds and stores his grain. The Grain Stabilization Corporation is reported to be holding a large share of the previous season's unsold crop.

Chicago, July 9.—The Chicago Tribune to-day says:

"Erratic markets are expected in wheat. The small open interest indicates that the market is well liquidated and the spring wheat crop is entering into a critical period of its growth. But there is general hesitancy over taking a stand on the bill side because of the uncertainty of the volume of the winter wheat movement. If the later is relatively moderate, it is expected that it will not be a burden to the market, as wheat is going into consumptive channels freely at these prices.

"Reports of hot weather came from the Dakotas, with temperatures at a number of points over 100, causing fears of damage to spring wheat. From Canada there were reports of heavy damage by hail."

Winnipeg, July 9.—Conservative estimate is that half a million acres might have been affected by the storm of Sunday and Monday and the probable loss in wheat yield might be as high as 5,000,000 bushels.

Yesterday was another trying day for the Western Canada wheat crop, temperatures throughout the west being mostly in the 90's. Sections where moisture had been insufficient were severely affected by the heat and general lack of sub-soil moisture makes high temperatures unwelcome and alarming at this time.

Edmonton, July 9.—Weather Bureau here gives temperature in the shade about 80, but it is excessively hot in the sun.

Moose Jaw, July 9.—Lightning and rain were reported in this area to-day.

C.P.R. Western Canada weather map says:
Manitoba—Winnipeg, part fine, 75-85a.
Souris, part cloudy, 69-73a, one hour rain on west end division.
Kenona, cloudy, calm, to clear east winds, 5-94.
Brandon, cloudy to clear, 60-80, severe electric and wind storm early this morning; heavy showers general.
Saskatchewan—Saskatoon, clear to cloudy, calm to light northwest winds, 50-95; this morning part cloudy, calm to light southwest wind.
Regina, clear to part cloudy, southwest wind, 55-90.
Moose Jaw, clear, light north wind, part cloudy, 60-95, now cloudy, showery, 74.
Alberta—Lethbridge, clear, calm, hot, 62-88. Midnight, clear, light west wind, 60.
Edmonton, clear and calm, 52-83.
Calgary, calm, 43-78.
Medicine Hat, clear, calm, 95.

MONTREAL LIST AT CLOSE LOSES PART OF ITS GAIN

Montreal, July 9.—Final transactions on the Montreal Stock Exchange today pulled values down slightly.

Nickel at 24, up ⅝, and Brazilian ½ higher at 38¾ along with Massey-Harris and Winnipeg Electric, which also had fractional gains, were exceptions.

Montreal Power eased ⅛ to ¾. Shawinigan was off 1¾ at 65 1-4 and Power Corporation down ¾ at 68. St. Lawrence Paper declined 1½ points to 8½. Canada Steamships preferred, off 2 1-2 at 50, was another large loser.

Money, Bond, Stock Rates Normal Now

New York, July 9.—During most of last year money rates were higher than bond yields, and the return on bonds was higher than stock yields, a condition which precluded successful investment operations. Now money rates are far below bond yields, while the return on common stocks is well above the return on bonds. In other words, the relationship between money rates and stock and bond yields is normal.

There are other fundamental indications which are usually reliable indexes of a definite turn in the market. This does not mean that the market will immediately respond to these signals any more than the market responded to the bear signals set late in 1928 and early in 1929. Liquidation may be carried to further extremes on the downside, although there are not any present indications that such will be the case. During May and June the market was extremely active on declines and dull on rallies. Now it is dull practically all of the time. It acts as though present liquidation has been completed, but new investment buying is not coming into the market except on recessions. In other words, it is a typical buyers market, and the buyers are taking their time and practically naming their own terms.

EXPECT STEEL PLANT TO ASK FOR BOUNTY

Negotiations Expected as Outgrowth of Texada Island Plan

Vancouver, July 9.—A special dispatch to The Vancouver Daily Province to-day stated that the announcement in Toronto of a $23,000,000 steel plant to be erected near Vancouver to use Texada Island ores would be followed by negotiations for provincial government assistance. This was understood at the legislative buildings in Victoria.

EXPECT STEEL

The Coast Range Steel Company would apply to the Province for the imposition of the steel bounty provided by existing legislation, it was said. Under this legislation the government may pay up to $3 a ton on pig iron manufactured in British Columbia from British Columbia ores, or $1.50 for iron made here from imported ores. It is authorized to spend up to $2,000,000 on such bounties. The actual payments may be varied as the government sees fit, and could be paid in smaller installments over a long period. The Coast Range Steel Company, manufacturing from Texada Island ore, would be entitled to a total or $3 a ton.

It was learned the provincial government had already shown its interest in the Texada Island scheme, and was anxious for its success should satisfactory arrangements for its financing be arranged.

TO-DAY'S REPORTS ON CALGARY OILS

By Special Service of Miller, Court & Co., Victoria Office

Entry of several new wells to production and improved performances at other producers, created a new record for Turner Valley production in June.

The peak figure of March was exceeded by more than 6,000 barrels with the total for the month of 111,900 barrels.

Calmont No. 2, A.P. Consolidated No. 1 and Freeman-Lundy were among the new producers.

The Home wells had a better total yield.

Royalite No. 4, historically a large producer, which in recent months has decreased, was heavier with production.

J. C. Dallas, managing director of Calmont, to-day stated plans were under way for a new type of separating equipment for the company's No. 2 well, which should materially increase production.

The well, with more than 42,000,000 cubic feet of gas, is not getting full production owing to pressure difficulties.

The new method should solve most of this inadequacy, Mr. Dallas said.

Says No Hurry To Buy Stocks

J. G. Kellam, Canadian Coast manager of Logan and Bryan, international New York stockbrokers, has been visiting Victoria with his wife and party, touring the Island.

At the Empress Hotel Mr. Kellam said he believed that in about a year or so from now it would likely be time enough to think of buying stocks for a rise that would hold. He said tipsters have been keeping the public long of the market during the break and getting them in just before the new dip. For years, he has been one of the best known New York market prognosticators on the Coast and has been manager of New York branch offices in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle before taking over his present control.

RAILROAD BONDS LEAD FIRMNESS

New York, July 9.—Broadened activity developed in the listed bond market, fusing new vitality into the better grade of issues which steadily advanced.

A striking feature of the movement of railroad bonds has been the quick response they have made to very limited offerings. San Francisco 4½s, Union Pacific 4s, Pennsylvania Gold 5s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, Great Northern 5½s, Canadian Pacific 4½s were among the railroad issues which ruled higher to-day.

Railroad convertible issues responded to the improved tone of stocks for which they are exchangeable.

Transcontinental oil warrant 6s equalled its 1930 high. American Natural Gas 6½s moved downward, dropping five points on thin sales.

Movement among foreign bonds was upward for the most part. Australian issues continued active. Columbia Mortgage Bank 6½s lost two points.

There was little activity in United States governments, the only sales in early dealings being in Liberty issues, which were virtually unchanged.

Reports from abroad are nearing completion, and it will total about $60,000,000, of which between $24,000,000 and $30,000,000 is expected to be offered in the United States.

BAD CRASH HITS AJAX OIL; NORDON RISES

Toronto, July 9.—A stronger feeling became evident through the list on the mining market towards the close of to-day.

Ajax Oil dropped to a low of 1.00, a net recession of 41 points. Acme was off on another severe break.

Nordon, in a late rush, advanced to 1.15, nineteen above last night.

International Nickel and Noranda were fractionally higher. Pend Oreille was up 10, Waite-Ackerman 9 and San Antonio, a couple.

Toronto, July 9 (Miller Court Service).—In a report to the president and directors of Howey Gold Mines Limited, H. G. Young, manager, sheds light on some features of the mine operations which up to the present appear to have been misunderstood.

In his statement, Mr. Young points out that "mine reports on completion of development and before milling, gave an average of $6.50 grade for a width of sixteen feet for the mine. In silling out the stopes we have increased this width to an average of thirty feet for the whole mine, and naturally expect lower grade than $6.50 per ton."

Development work at Abana had made steady progress during the four months ending with June, according to official information. On the 425-foot level work was completed with the finishing of the crosscuts to the east and west of the main crosscut. In the 550-foot horizon development was completed to the diabase dyke to the east and to a point about 1,000 feet west of the dyke. What is apparently another ore body was opened up in length with the vein running six to eight feet in width.

Arrangements for the financing of additional development work at the property of Hislop Gold Mines, southeast of Matheson, are just about complete. A strong financial group from New York has expressed willingness to advance funds in return for stock, it is understood. The property, which is fully equipped, has seen considerable surface work, consisting of trenching stripping and test fitting.

TIP TOP EASIER ON TORONTO LIST

Toronto, July 9.—While leaders gave a firmer appearance on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, the improvement did not induce wider buying.

Tip Top Tailors reacted under profit-taking, selling down more than two points to 35. Waterloo Manufacturing dropped back a point. Brazilian and Nickel both netted a fractional gain.

Oils were quiet, International Petroleum alone making headway.

Brokers Chary Of Predictions

Wall Street Journal in its Pacific Coast edition to-day says:

"Brokers are chary of predictions as to when a cessation of the low business ebb will bring about a condition justifying the purchase of common stocks for a major advance. Advice to clients centres on the creation of a position of advantage to seize the time by the forelock when such a condition does arise.

"Assumption of a liquid position through the jettisoning of securities in danger of reducing or suspending dividends to make way for purchasers among the leaders upon revival of the upward trend is advised in many quarters."

Canada Dry Sales Set New Record

New York, July 9.—Canada Dry ginger ale sales on June 30 constituted the largest single day's sales on record, when the total reached 137 carloads, or over 2,000,000 bottles of Canada Dry. President Saylor said it is virtually safe to predict this will be exceeded within the next few months. This confidence is supported by the fact that Canada Dry's profits during June, 1930, exceeded those of June, 1929.

NASH DIVIDEND IS CUT TO $4

New York, July 9.—Nash Motors has placed its stock on a $4 annual basis, compared with $6 previously. For the quarter ended May 31 the company shows a net profit of $1,932,896, after charges and after reserve of $1,155,000 for contingencies. For the six months ended May 31 the net is equivalent to $1.36 a share on the common, compared with $3.93 a share for the same period of 1929.

Steel, Can., Gen. Electric and Radio Absorb Most Interest For the Day

Short Interests in No Hurry to Cover, Bliss Declares This Afternoon

New York, July 9 (B.C. Bond).—At the close of the market this afternoon, the Dow Jones average of thirty industrials stood at 222.04, up 2.96 points for the day; for twenty rails at 129.51, up 1.86 points, and for twenty utilities at 80.40, up 1.07 points. Sales for the day totalled 1,355,400 shares.

Price changes on the day were, in the main small, and real activity was confined to a number of industrials, including U.S. Steel, General Electric, American Can and Radio.

The weekly trade reviews stated that the iron and steel demand had not recovered ground lost during the holiday and expressed the opinion that immediate prospects were not promising.

Another source estimated that the decline in unfilled tonnage figures of the U.S. Steel Corporation to be published to-morrow, would amount to between 50,000 and 100,000 tons.

A slow recovery progressed evenly throughout the morning, but early in the afternoon the list ran into a little selling and further progress was lost.

"If to-day's market can be taken as a criterion, it may be said the short interests are in no hurry to cover contracts," H. P. Bliss said after the close of the market this afternoon.

EARNINGS LOWER

Nash Motors announced a reduction in the dividend rate from $6 to $4, a development which has been generally anticipated.

Dow Jones service reported it probable that Goodyear Rubber covered the $2.50 dividend in the first half of the year by a fair margin, although the second quarter was below the first, reflecting in part reduced tire prices. In the first half of last year, Goodyear earned $7.02 a share on the common.

ONLY DRIBBLING BANK LIQUIDATION

The World to-day says it probably can be assumed that no further substantial volume of margin liquidation is possible, but of more importance is the dribbling liquidation of frozen bank loans in securities. However, such selling should tend to check an advance rather than to cause unsettlement.

The New York Times says there is a growing impression in the financial district that a more constructive attitude toward the market is in order.

OIL FIGURES ENCOURAGING

Weekly oil figures contain encouragement for those who have been worrying over the statistical position of the petroleum industry, as another large decrease was reported in gasoline inventories, and a sharp decline in refiners' operations.

CAN'S EARNINGS MAY BE HIGHER

While it is too early definitely to predict the full year's earnings for American Can, the indications are that with normal conditions prevailing during the last half, the net will be moderately above the 1929 earnings of $8.02 a share. The final net may reach as high as $9 a share, but it is more likely that results will closely approximate $8.50 a share.

LIQUIDATION MORE DIFFICULT

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to influence general liquidation by the simple expedient of placing pressure on the accepted market leaders," H. P. Bliss to-day says.

SENTIMENT IMPROVES

Wall Street Mirror to-day issued the following to its clients:

"Sentiment regarding the stock market continues to show improvement, with the feeling becoming more prevalent that the averages for the industrials, at least, will not break the low made on June 24. In addition to this, it was learned that one of the big life insurance companies had been, and still is, a buyers of stock at current levels.

"Further rally in the stock market can be expected, due to the rally in the grain market which carried prices for the commodity upward at the close of Tuesday's market.

NATIONAL BISCUIT A BUY

"One of the high grade issues, which is now believed in a buying range, is National Biscuit. When buying is mentioned at this time it is not meant that issues are a purchase for a turn, but with the idea that they are of levels where they should be bought and put away. Biscuit is expected to show smaller earnings for the second quarter, but the dividend will be held at the current figure.

POOL IN VANADIUM

"Vanadium continues to act like a stock which has strong pool support. As mentioned on previous occasions, Vanadium is now one of the best trading mediums on the list. It is still a favorite target for the bear party, and the short interest in the stock increases on every rally."

Business Bottom May Be Reached By August—Brookmire

Business may probably reach its bottom in August, and the turn, therefore, is not far ahead, according to the latest report of The Brookmire Economic Service.

The analysis continues:

"The preliminary estimate for June puts our business index slightly below the 89 per cent of normal level reached last December. This is the first time, since the initial decline, that business has broken through to a new low.

"The renewed decline in a business is coincident with acute weakness in commodity prices and a reactionary stock market. The drop in commodity prices has carried some important world products to new low levels for all time and we believe this is the final slump. A turn-about in prices would pave the way for business recovery.

"Believing this is the final slump in commodity prices and that business will reach the extreme bottom in July or August, we anticipate that the reactionary tendencies in the stock market will soon have discounted all unfavorable factors and that a turn is not far ahead."

UNITY SOUGHT BY LOCALS FOR TRADE BOARDS

The Victoria motion, which will be introduced by Mr. Fowler and seconded by Mr. Parfitt, aims to secure the wholehearted support of all branches of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island for any move it may forward, reads as follows:

"Resolved, that the practice of passing resolutions at the general meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island be eliminated entirely and be substituted by the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island going on record at the plenary session as to the various matters arising and the conclusions arrived at:

"And that the association does not go on record on any matter unless it has the backing and unanimous approval of all the boards of trade and chambers of commerce represented at the meeting by proxy."

FULL REPRESENTATION

At the coming session, Courtenay, Comox, Cumberland, Duncan, Esquimalt, Ladysmith, Malahat, Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Qualicum Beach, Sidney, Saanich, Tofino and Victoria boards of trade will be represented.

Matters pertaining to roads, fishing, burning of slash, motor vehicle responsibility, protection of game birds and a suggested amended constitution, will come up for discussion at the meeting.

The question of amending the constitution was laid over from the last meeting of the association last October.

A. Leighton of Nanaimo, president of the Associated Boards, will preside over the conference. He will be assisted by P. Leo Anderton of Courtenay, vice-president.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, July 9.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day:

FURTHER RESISTANCE TO SELLING

"The support which was so necessary to a market which had arrived at the critical point yesterday was forthcoming in line with expectations with the well advertised bear drives during the day, disclosing that firm resistance was being encountered just where it should be. As I pointed out here yesterday, it was most important that the market should receive this support at this point in order to prove that it had sufficient strength to make a definite stand at what would constitute bad points to be broken.

"It was also pointed out that yesterday's performance practically necessitated the appearance of sufficient rally to take it out of danger. The rally which actually occurred was, judged by ordinary standards, nothing to get excited about, but nevertheless, one which plainly showed that enough stock was being bought to prevent raids from gaining any headway.

"I believe the significance of the whole performance is that it shows us the stand which is being taken by large interests as to the remaining amount of time it will take for business to turn up, and I believe it represents their viewpoint that this turn is near enough at hand so that in spite of whatever further delay or further adverse developments occur in the intervening period, they are willing to carry stocks through both what remaining time and bad news there is left.

"From everything I can find, I see no need of changing the previously expressed opinion that mid-August will bring forth definite signs of business improvement. This opinion was expressed here on the first of the month as a result of what could be learned from business leaders inclined to look below surface developments and current news. It was then expressed as my candid opinion that the next five to six weeks would bring forth concrete evidence of sufficient business improvement to constitute a fundamental market stimulation, so lacking then, and for that matter, still so.

"A little over a week of this period has already passed, and I believe the remaining weeks are going to be the means of justifying the prediction. The troublesome point, however, to those who are looking for action in the day to day market is that they are not going to get much of it until such times as we get a little nearer to this turn. It may come sooner than expected, but certainly think that in so far as this week is concerned you can expect little, if any, significant movement in the market, with the one possible exception that an additional test of the bottom will be made which, if lacking in any great movement of prices, will nevertheless be highly significant in that it will definitely establish the fact that we have made a market bottom which is going to stand until such time as fundamental business factors provide the basis for actual advance."

BRITAIN IS TO BUILD THREE SUBMARINES

First Lord of Admiralty Asks Commons to Vote $1,000,000

Canadian Press

London, July 9.—The Admiralty to-day published additional estimates for naval construction for the current year in which £208,200 (about $1,000,000) is asked.

The amount will be used for construction allowed Great Britain under the London Treaty.

Of the supplementary estimates, £183,600 is required to meet costs to be incurred this fiscal year on three submarines of the 1929 programme, construction of which had been deferred pending conclusion of the Naval Treaty.

The balance of $24,600 will be devoted to the new construction programme for 1930.

CRUISER PROGRAMME

Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, gave an outline of the use to which the money will be put. "Under existing international conditions and for the strictly limited period covered by the Naval Treaty," he said, "Fifty cruisers have been accepted as meeting the requirements of all the members of the British Commonwealth, provided that in this number there is a proper proportion of new construction and that the other powers reduce correspondingly their projected programmes. This number represents the peace requirements.

Mr. Alexander pointed out that during the next ten years thirty-six of the existing cruisers would disappear from the navy list and in 1940, of the existing cruisers built and building, including those of the 1929 programme, only twenty-three would remain under twenty years of age.

FOR TEN YEARS

"If, therefore, looking ahead over a period of ten years, provision is to be made for this number of fifty by means of a steady replacement programme, it will be necessary to spread twenty-seven cruisers over the 1930-36 programme years," he said. "That is between three and four cruisers a year. It is for this reason that His Majesty's Government proposes three cruisers in the present programme year and provision for such construction is made under the terms of the London Naval Treaty."

An average of three submarines yearly, concluded the First Lord, was necessary to maintain the submarine strength at the treaty figure of 52,700 tons and that number was provided for this year.

B.C. PAPER MILLS WATCH TARIFF OF AUSTRALIA

Vancouver, July 9.—At first sight the increased duty of $5.00 a ton imposed by Australia on imported newsprint looks formidable for the paper mills in British Columbia, which ship a large volume of paper to the Commonwealth.

Under the British preference the Canadian exporters enjoy an advantage of $15.00 a ton over countries like Norway and Sweden.

Under the terms of the Canadian-Australian treaty, brought into effect in October, 1925, Australia granted on a number of goods, including newsprint, "the rates of duty for the time being applicable to goods to which the British preferential tariff applies."

Officials of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and of the Powell River Co. Ltd., the largest Canadian exporters of newsprint to Australia, infer the increase in the duty on newsprint into Australia will be general, applying to all newsprint imports from all countries for the sake of securing revenue.

If that inference from the details so far received from Canberra is correct, the preferential position of Canadian newsprint exporters will not be affected. The ratio of preference over competitors other than British will remain the same. The only result of the new impost, one of the officials referred to claimed, would be a reduction in the amount of newsprint consumed in Australia, but that would be so relatively small it would not affect the pulp and paper manufacturing mills on the Pacific Coast to any material extent.

CONFERENCE ON INDIA HAS OPEN FIELD

report of the Simon Statutory Commission.

"It is the belief of His Majesty's government that by way of conference, it should be possible to reach solutions both countries and all parties and all interests in them can honorably accept, and that such agreement at which the conference is able to arrive will form the basis of proposals which His Majesty's government will later submit to parliament."

DISOBEDIENCE CAMPAIGN

Referring to the civil disobedience movement of the last three months, the Viceroy stressed the damage it had inflicted in countless directions. In firm language he announced the government's intention to combat such a "dangerously subversive" movement.

Continuing, he emphasized the pernicious effects, which the dangerous doctrine that was being preached to Indian citizens might have in the future, when it might imperil the very Indian government which by methods it was sought to bring into existence.

SPIRIT OF TRUST

In a moving final appeal, made, he said, "rather as a friend than as Viceroy," Lord Irwin expressed the belief that if both sides could recapture the spirit of mutual trust they would liberate invincible forces of faith to remove the mountains which lately had hemmed them in.

"Two roads lie open," he concluded, "one leading, as I think, to turmoil, disunity, disappointment and shattered hopes, and the other guiding those who follow it to the India of our dreams—a proud part in the Commonwealth of Nations, leading and gaining strength by such honorable association.

"India to-day has to make her choice. I pray God she may be moved to choose aright."

NATURAL GAS FOR VANCOUVER NOW PROMISED

Company Proposes to Drill on Lulu Island and at Boundary

Canadian Press

Vancouver, B.C., July 9.—Competition from natural gas fields near Vancouver for coal and water gas produced here looms with the operations of a drilling company which holds oil and gas rights on 15,000 acres of land in the Lulu Island and Boundary Bay districts.

B. J. Freeman, manager of the Van-Free Oil Company, to-day stated preparations had been made for immediate deepening of the old Monarch well on Lulu Island, near Steveston, and equipment was on the ground for this work. Operations would be extended at once to other drilling and pipe lines laid to Vancouver for sale of the natural product here.

With Mr. Freeman are associated S. C. Shippey of the International Pipe-line Company of New York and S. Orloff, superintendent of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe-line Company. Ample capital was forthcoming for the enterprise, Mr. Freeman stated, and equipment was already on the ground.

LOS ANGELES FIGHTS WAVE OF PARALYSIS

Los Angeles, July 9.—Precautionary steps were being taken to-day by city and county health authorities to prevent a further spread of infantile paralysis, which, since June 1 has caused eleven deaths in Los Angeles County.

Health authorities are requesting parents to keep children away from theatres, churches swimming pools and other gathering places. The disease, they said, spreads quickly when children are grouped.

CHURCH ROBBED IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, July 9—Cash and cheques totaling $606 were stolen from the St. Andrew's Church office here, between 12.15 and 12.40 noon Tuesday, according to a report to police headquarters.

Miss H. C. Ross, church secretary, said the theft was committed while she was at lunch, the front door of the church had been forced and the desk in which the cash was kept opened. The loot consisted of $300 cash and $306 in cheques.

Bottom Out Of Gasoline Market

Portland, Ore., July 9.—The bottom dropped out of the gasoline market here to-day and service stations displayed signs retailing motor fuel at from 8 to 12½ cents a gallon.

Gasoline companies said the price war apparently is a case of a fight to a finish.

Tacoma, July 9.—Tacoma motorists to-day were enjoying the cheapest gasoline obtainable on the Pacific coast. Retail prices here were reported as ranging between 7½ and 10½ cents a gallon.

VETERANS FAVOR DEPORTATION OF WORKLESS ALIENS

Duncan Legion Branch Initiates Campaign to Solve Unemployment

Special to The Times

Duncan, July 9.—Unemployment, Labor Day sports and dance and the suggested club were the principal business discussed at the Canadian Legion meeting held in the K. P. Hall, on Monday evening.

Captain J. D. Groves said Cowichan Branch of the Legion should take the initiative in discussing unemployment. The problem was reaching a dangerous stage, there being many foreigners in Canada who had not served under our flag. He favored moving back to their own country all aliens who could legally be deported. Comrade Goddard suggested that the nationality of men employed on the Canadian National Railway be inquired into and efforts made to give work on the C.N.R. to Britishers or those born in Canada.

Comrade Kinch was strongly in favor of all immigration and cheap transportation from foreign countries being stopped. Comrade Castle suggested that foreigners here could not be allowed to starve. Road construction schemes such as a transdominion highway and a highway to Alaska would solve unemployment. Building railways and highways was stated by Comrade Ashby to be usually done by contract, most of the laborers employed being foreigners, as British would not accept the conditions and pay.

Comrade Vickers stated that in England all contractors have to guarantee to pay union rates. He thought that a similar plan could be adopted here. Comrade Ashby replied that the cost would be exorbitant.

Admiral Nugent was of opinion that the easiest and simplest way out of the difficulty was a reduction of land tax. This would mean a back to the land movement. He further suggested that a tariff should be imposed on all foreign farm produce.

The meeting decided to ask all branches of the Legion to support a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to deport aliens who become, or are likely to become, a charge on a community.

For the Annual Labor Day Sports and Dance Comrade George Jarvis was unanimously elected chairman of the sport committee, and Comrade A. J. Castle chairman of the dance committee.

The club committee were instructed to ascertain whether a license will be granted, and what further finance will be necessary for the proposed club.

Comrade W. Purver was the recipient of a presentation on the eve of his departure to England. President Duncan stated that Comrade Purver had done all the spade work as first secretary to the branch.

NANAIMO HOLDS GREAT MEETING FOR O'HALLORAN

Liberal Candidate Addressed Big Audience Yesterday at St. John's Hall

George S. Pearson, M.P.P., Shows Fallacy of Conservative Tariff Programme

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, July 9.—C. H. O'Halloran, Liberal candidate in the Federal election, was accorded a rousing reception yesterday evening by a large meeting held in St. John's Hall. William Mellor, president of the Nanaimo Liberal Association, occupied the chair.

Mr. O'Halloran quoted an extract from the Toronto Financial Post, dated July, which predicted the return of the King Government. With Nanaimo as one of the two ridings in British Columbia likely to elect Liberals. Mr. Dickie's claim of credit for having the siren at Gallows Point removed, was unjust, he said, reading letters to prove that Mayor Hall had been responsible. Mr. Dickie had nothing to do with securing drydocks for Victoria or extension of the Canadian National Railway to Cowichan Lake.

The people of Nanaimo riding considered Mr. Dickie attributed too much of his inaction to the fact that he sat in opposition benches.

Mr. O'Halloran stressed the need of developing the potential industries of Vancouver Island, where facilities for handling them were to hand, instead of building railways in outlying unsettled parts of the country. The potential industries specifically mentioned by the sepaker were fishing, pulp and coal.

G. S. PEARSON SPEAKS

George S. Pearson, M.P.P., in a speech of an hour's duration, derided the policy of Conservatives to set up higher tariff walls as a solution of problems now confronting Canada, and other countries of the world. He pointed out that high tariff meant taxes on everything, which the people will have to pay. He reviewed the progress of Canada during the King Government regime and the gradual removal of all nuisance taxes, except the excise stamp on cheques.

The policy of the Liberals had been to face taxation, to stop borrowing money, to pay off the war debt, and save millions of dollars in interest. The King administration had rescued the country from the state of bankruptcy in which they had found it when the Conservative Government was ousted from power.

The collapse of the stock exchange and wheat market was not the fault of any government. It was due to the functioning of certain economic conditions which had also affected other countries.

The present unemployment could be traced to the world war. Machinery had been built to take the place of human labor, and when the war ceased Canada, with other countries of the world, had to struggle with the work of readjustment.

Mr. Pearson stated that Conservatives were making unemployment their main issue, which was unfair, as the same conditions were prevalent all over the world, and Canada had the least unemployment among the nations. The Federal Government had never yet received any official appeal from any province for aid in regard to unemployment.

OHIO PAPER TRIES TO KEEP TOURISTS IN U.S.

Toronto, July 9.—Efforts of an Ohio newspaper to discourage motor trips into Canada and divert tourist business to United States resorts has been revealed by C. C. Hele, director of publicity for the Ontario Government.

According to Mr. Hele, the paper published articles intimating tourists would meet with "more red tape during their annual tours into Canada this year than ever before." It was also claimed United States citizens wishing entry into this country were now required to produce their birth certificates at border points.

"There is absolutely no foundation for such statements," Mr. Hele said.

Too Much Coffee, Brazil May Destroy 4,500,000 Sacks

New York, July 9.—The destruction of 4,500,000 bags of coffee out of present inferior stocks, and out of the coming crop of 1930-1, and the following crop of 1931-32 is being agitated in Sao Paulo to relieve the depression existing in the world coffee market, according to Nortz and Company, members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

"The plan to destroy low grade coffee," they say in their weekly bulletin, "is said to meet with considerable favor, very likely, especially with those who do not own any. The confiscation and destruction of four and a half million bags of coffee, even low grades, seem like another gigantic problem, and if carried out will work severe hardship on many owners. To have one's property destroyed for the common good may be a patriotic duty, but one that can hardly be expected to arouse much enthusiasm among those who happen to own the low grades.

"So far it appears that Sao Paulo is acting alone in this project, and the question of co-operation of the other states naturally arises and Federal legislation is being agitated to force them to join. We do not know yet what the minimum grade is to be, but in view of the very large proportion of low grade coffee exported from Victoria and Rio especially, it would seem that difficulty would be encountered securing the co-operation there. On the other hand, if Sao Paulo goes ahead alone and actually attends to the destruction of the low grades, their action will serve to enhance the value of the low-grade coffee of other states.

"The theory that the destruction of the very low grade coffee, in many cases coffee that is classified almost as sweepings, will improve the value of the remaining stocks, is probably based on the premise that statistically all bags of coffee are equal. That is to say, in the interior stocks of Sao Paulo, a bag of low grade counts as much and exerts the same amount of pressure by the very reason of its existence as a high grade desirable bag of coffee. The elimination of 4,500,000 bags, if it could be accomplished in the next two years, would undoubtedly improve the picture statistically.

"So far as the influence of such action on the market is concerned, however, it would probably be felt only to the extent that potential purchasers of the low grades are forced to use the remaining better grades. How much of a market will be created is problematical; in the United States not for one bag, because the kind of coffee under discussion is already barred from entry by the pure food law, which prohibits importations of coffee that is not equal to the New York Coffee Exchange standard No. 8."

Bonds—and a Buyer's Market

The Bond Market holds very firm despite the many large new issues which have been offered in Canada this year. The price tendency, for some time, has been upward, and most authorities believe this will be continued due to the lack of speculation and the righting of general conditions. It is true we may see slight fluctuations, but in our opinion investors should not hold off for the small advantage which might accrue for that reason.

WHEAT TESTS ARE SUCCESS

Ottawa, July 9.—Considerable enthusiasm was expressed among millers of Great Britain and on the Continent of Europe who investigated Garnet wheat as to its milling qualities. A report by L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, on the results of the investigations of a specially bagged shipment of this blend of wheat overseas was made public yesterday. For a time at least, Garnet wheat should be shipped as a separate variety instead of mixed with Manitobas, he said. This would give the millers an opportunity of knowing the variety they were dealing with and they could treat it to the best advantage.

THE PEACOCK'S TAIL

By

Mrs. ROMILLY FEDDEN

While the General's words were in his ears, the thought of Concha filled his mind. When he had missed her after their flight from the cafe, he had gone back to find her; but the cafe was deserted, empty save for the body of young Cortes. Again he had left by the rear door, to return yet again with his orderly for the body of the boy. As he thought of her now he was bitter, anxious, and ashamed. They had all flattered her, amused her, admired her. They had trusted her and used her. used her fortune, her spirit, her unequalled knowledge of the country, to this end. The General's only remark had been with a shrug, that she was half English, and when all was said and done—a spy.

The only comfort he had was the belief that she could look out for herself. He prayed that she might.

His thoughts were disturbed by a fresh outburst from the General sitting coatless at the table. D'Astorga turned. An orderly stood before him, a man whom he had sent to the kaid with an insolently worded demand for the surrender of Hassan Ali to trail and punishment.

"Refuses to give him up, you say?" A string of oaths followed. "Refuses to give him up?"

The man tried vainly to speak, stopped by a torrent of words. Finally, in a pause, he managed to be heard "The kaid did not refuse, sir. He tore up the letter, sir, unread."

For a moment the General was speechless. Then he called down every form of vengeance upon the city, its men, women, and children. He painted a lurid picture of the revenge that he would take for this insult to himself.

The messenger stood patiently waiting. The staff, at last, looked their thorough disgust. But it was D'Astorga who stepped forward, speaking in a coldly measured tone.

"Before you can take your revenge, sir, the coming insurrection has to be dealt with, must be faced. No measures have as yet been taken, no orders given. I beg you, sir to allow your staff to deal with this crisis, which, as you say, sir, your training has possibly not prepared you to meet. A sally, prompt action, is all that will save us. I take the responsibility for my words. I volunteer to lead a sortie myself."

"No measures," the General roared. "How dare you, sir? Have I not sent two messengers, at your advice, the girl's advice, to recall the troops?"

"Too late."

"Demanded the surrender of the rebel leader?"

"Your messengers—their heads adorn the city walls. The kaid insults our country, our flag, our King, destroys unread your letter."

The General slumped down in his chair. He shrivelled. "Take command," he said weakly. "Under me, of course. Act as you fellows think best. And, for God's sake, get out of here."

At that instant a second orderly appeared.

"What is it?" D'Astorga's tone was crisp.

"A Moor, sir, with a message for you."

D'Astorga followed the orderly into the ante-room. Abdullah stood between two soldiers outside in the passage, repeating his name.

"Bring him in," he said. He used his few words of Arabic to give the poor fellow confidence. Abdullah produced the ring, which he proffered. D'Astorga recognized it and slipped it upon his finger. Abdullah repeated his message very slowly in Arabic. "Your messengers have failed. I go to recall the regiments. Make no sortie. Hold the garrisons to the last man, for succor is coming with the dawn. I send this by Abdullah, my servant."

D'Astorga turned away and stood for a moment in silence. Then he beckoned Abdullah to follow him. He knocked upon the bedroom door and entered. "My General," he said, "gentlemen—I have a message of the utmost importance to communicate. You know this ring?" He drew the silver circlet set with emeralds from his little finger.

The General grunted. "What's happened to the girl?"

D'Astorga fixed him with a stern eye. "The girl—the spy—has gone out alone upon the road to Fez, by night, running what risk you know to recall the regiments."

"What, sir?" The General half rose from his chair. "The little devil."

"Abdullah," D'Astorga beckoned in the peasant, "repeat again the message of the honorable lady."

Abdullah stood forward, his brown face, beneath his turban, taut with the effort to remember every word. "I go to recall the regiments. Make no sortie. Hold the garrison to the last man. Help comes with the dawn. I send this by Abdullah, my servant."

"You may retire, my man. Wait for me in the ante-room."

D'Astorga turned to the little group of men. "We must have the grace to acknowledge that this is a great deed. Worthy to be numbered with the greatest in our history." He bowed and went out.

The General grunted. "The little devil," he said.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Lifted above the labyrinth of streets, of alleys, and bazaars which were El Foukara, beneath the doming sky starspangled, encircled by the stillness of the hills, a strange and phantom city had its life that night. The women were on the housetops. From end to end of the pale town the roofs stirred with the life of the harems, the shuffle of embroidered shoes, the rustle of brocaded kaftans, the soft trail of haik, of silk and gauze, the tiny clash of crystal bangles, of silver anklets the smothered laugh, the snatch of a song, the cry of a child. Like a sigh from the city came the first breath of their presence—voices, movements—a sigh which grew in import, as from roof to roof the wind carried hints of vengeance waiting to-night upon the hated Spaniard, carried, too, old stories of past glories, of ancient wrongs, of deeds of valor. Then the sigh swelled to a voice, and the voice bearing its weight of woe trembled out from every housetop over the town, gaining, as the hours passed, ever a deadlier meaning, a more cruel note, till the waiting men upon the hilltops, stirred to the depths of their beings by the immemorial cry, started down to the plains below. The women on the housetops were keening for the fight.

Mahommed Ali's women had passed up the narrow staircase to the roof. The wives muffled to the eyes as they crossed the corner of the patio, contest at any change in the monotony of their cramped existences, the slaves, whose freedom was greater than their mistresses, excited and amused, the children, the wise women who kept them all in order, one by one they had trailed up the stair to the roof, there to settle themselves, to listen, to apprehend all that the wind whispered, and in their turn to give it abroad to the night, rocking as they raised their voices.

Fitzgerald, changing into native garments in his rooms, heard the long-drawn cry rising from above him, and knew that he must return as he had come, by the street. It would not do to surprise Mahommed Ali's wives unveiled. So he tramped down the stairs and through the passage to the door. He felt in the door for the key. It eluded him. He snapped on his electric torch and looked. The key was gone, neither in the door nor on the ground. He could not believe his own senses. Not fifteen minutes ago he had entered here and locked the door after him with care. What did it mean? Only one thing in the domain of material things, that some one had taken the key, that some one unknown to him had been in the house with him. Was that some one still in the house? He examined the keyhole. No, the key was in the lock on the outside.

He made his way to the court. It was damned unpleasant, damned awkward. He would be obliged to return to Mahommed Ali's roof after all. He went up the stair to his own roof, where he raised his voice in a shout, "Yaminah, Yaminah."

The slave heard his appeal and came jumping down, running towards him. He begged her to explain to the ladies that he was obliged to pass that way, and to ask if they would pardon his intrusion.

Yaminah ran with the message, and in a moment a chorus of jesting voices bid him be free of the housetop. In a moment he had climbed the few steps of the ladder and was the centre of a lively group of children and slaves, while the wives of their master sat veiled and nodding to him from the parapet behind them. Freeing himself from the dancing crowd, last of all from the little 'un in green who clung to his leg, Fitzgerald started down the stair. He suddenly stopped, struck by a thought. Where was Concha? He turned and addressed himself to Yaminah.

"And where is the lady who is the guest of the harem?"

The girl looked at him in amazement. "How should your servant know the ways of the white women?"

But already Fitzgerald was at the bottom of the stairs, where in the patio he sent a guard to ask the English Excellency to speak with him.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Wonderful Ride

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1930).

"Don't be silly!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily as the old rabbit gentleman was hopping out of his hollow stump bungalow one morning to go adventuring. "Don't be silly!"

"What do you mean, silly?" asked Mr. Longears.

"See how the sun is shining!" went on the muskrat lady housekeeper, "and yet you are taking an umbrella! Silly!" she laughed showing all her teeth.

"But I might need the umbrella," said Uncle Wiggily. "I might rain!"

"It will rain whether you carry an umbrella or not," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy with a laugh. "You don't suppose, do you, that the rain will stop falling just because you have an umbrella? Silly!"

"No, I don't suppose that," Mr. Longears answered. "But if I have an umbrella and it rains I will not get wet, as I would if I didn't have an umbrella. So I'm going to take it with me as I go looking for some adventures."

"It doesn't look half as silly as it does to see an old rabbit like me hopping through the rain getting all wet because he has no umbrella," spoke Mr. Longears.

"Maybe something is the matter with his engine!"

"Check!" exclaimed Baby Bunty, who was hopping out to play lollypop tag with Jackie Bow Wow. To play this game you must have a lollypop, and when you are "it" you have to let your chum hold your lollypop while you try to tag somebody else. And if you get any of your lollypop back you are lucky.

Uncle Wiggily, with his umbrella, hopped over the fields and through the woods until he came to a large open green meadow where the white daisies and yellow buttercup flowers were growing. All of a sudden, in the air over his head, Uncle Wiggily heard a loud, throbbing sound.

"That must be a big bumble bee buzzing," thought the rabbit. But when he looked up he saw a shadow moving over the grass and it was such a large shadow that the rabbit gentleman knew at once it could not have been made by a bumble bee. Then Uncle Wiggily took another look and he saw what had caused the loud, throbbing, buzzing sound.

"An airplane! Oh, it's an airplane airship!" cried the rabbit gentleman, so excited that his pink nose twinkled upside down. "And I believe it is going to land in this field!" went on Mr. Longears.

Eagerly he watched the airplane zooming overhead. Uncle Wiggily knew something about airships, once having had one of his own. True, it was but an old clothes basket, with toy circus balloons tied fast to make it go up, and an electric fan for a propeller. But Uncle Wiggily had many adventures in it.

"Yes, that aviator is coming down right in this field where I am!" said Uncle Wiggily, speaking to a black cricket gentleman who was hopping around in the grass.

"Forced landing, very likely," chirped the cricket.

"Looks so," agreed Uncle Wiggily.

"Do you s'pose that can be Lindy?" asked the cricket, for he and others living in Woodland near Uncle Wiggily's bungalow often heard news of Colonel Lindbergh over the radio.

"No, I hardly think that is Lindy," said the rabbit gentleman. "There'd be a big crowd out here if he were going to land. I think that must be one of the mail pilots. Maybe something is the matter with his engine and he has to land to fix it."

"I hope he doesn't land on me!" chirped the cricket.

"And I don't want him on me," cried Uncle Wiggily. "We'd better get over to the edge of the field." Carrying his umbrella, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the edge of the field. The cricket came after him, but the bunny could take longer hops and soon had left the cricket behind.

With a swoop and a swish and a bump, the airplane, with a real man pilot in it, made a fine three-point landing in the field, not far from where the rabbit was hiding. Uncle Wiggily saw a pilot get out and do something to his motor and propeller.

"Maybe a piece of cloud caught on the propellor blades," thought the rabbit. He hopped toward the back of the plane, near the tail skid and the rudders. And then, feeling very bold and wanting to see more, Uncle Wiggily hopped right up on the tail of the airplane. No sooner had he done so than, all of a sudden, the pilot climbed back to the cockpit and, before Uncle Wiggily could jump off, up and away started the plane, for the pilot had only slowed down his motor and had not stalled it altogether.

"Oh, I'm having a wonderful ride!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he went up in the air, higher and higher, faster and faster. The rabbit gentleman held tightly to his umbrella. And what happened next will be told to-morrow night. Then, if the butter doesn't slip off the slice of bread and go roller skating with the cake, the story will be about Uncle Wiggily's parachute.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1930

Astrologers read this as an unusually unfortunate day. All the aspects are adverse and many sinister influences are prevalent.

In the early morning women are subject to disturbins and upsetting influences, which may be expressed in irritability.

The day is supposed to be disquieting and thwarting, making for many mistakes and accidents.

While this configuration prevails domestic harmony may be easily ruptured and dissensions that are serious started.

Workers at this time may encounter difficulties making for disappointment, but they have the promise of much prosperity later.

This is believed to be an unfavorable away for aviation, and especially for any sort of aerial exhibition.

It is not an auspicious day to seek employment, as the general feeling will be to diminish staffs of clerks and other wage-earners.

Both men and women who exercise authority mak be temporarily exacting and difficult to please, but the fault is in the stars and not in themselves, the seers point out.

Because astrologers foretell tremendous prosperity in the autumn the summer may be dull in certain trades and occupations, but if the stars are rightly read the year will close with a hurrah.

The planetary government is believed to encourage reorganizations and readjustments in business matters. For this reason there is foretold a brief extension of apparent uncertainty.

Motion pictures as well as other great business enterprises will reveal many changes and improvements, the seers prognosticate.

The outlook for writers as well as actors is most encouraging, it is forecast, and many genuinely gifted persons will be recognized.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year that may bring many surprises. They should be extraordinarily cautious in all important matters.

Children born on this day probably will incline toward strictly intellectual pursuits. The subjects of this sign usually are intensely determined and original or even eccentric.

James Abbott McNeill Whistler, celebrated painter, was born on this day, 1834. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include John Calvin, 1509, theologian; Sir William Blackstone, 1723, commentor on law; Frederick Marryat, 1792, sailor and novelist.

Advice to the Prospective Bridegroom

Dorothy Dix

Tells How to Assure a Happy Marriage

"Take Your Time and Look About You Before You Enter Into a Life Contract to Put Up With Temper and Temperament and Pay Bills of Any Woman," Is Dorothy Dix's Advice to Young Men

A YOUNG man asks me to give him some advice appertaining to and concerning marriage.

Well, son, my first bit of counsel is not to be in a hurry about marrying. Take your time and look about you before you enter into a life contract to put up with the temper and temperament and pay the bills of any woman. And, above all, don't marry until you are good and ready to be a fireside companion. As long as a man enjoys philandering with women and wants to spend his evenings playing poker with the boys, he should stay single.

Don't take a girl out of a good home, where she has kind and loving parents and brothers and sisters and friends for company, and where she leads an interesting and amusing life, and drop her down into a bungalow or kitchenette apartment and leave her to spend her evenings alone. A woman marries to get a companion, not a stuffed shirt that sits up with a newspaper in its hand and out of which she is lucky to get a grunt when she essays to engage it in conversation.

Don't marry until you have the price. A family is an expensive luxury in these days of the high cost of living and you want to be very sure that you can affond the upkeep before you set one up. Otherwise you will regret it.

Don't marry a girl for one thing and expect her to be the exact opposite as soon as you get her home. There is no magic in the marriage ceremony that changes the character of a woman and turns a moron into a blue stocking or a spender into a saver or a petter into a prude. What a girl was before marriage she is going to be after marriage. Only more so.

Remember that kittens grow up into cats, and flappers cease to flap, and that the cute little ways that are so entrancing in the days of courtship when you only see a little of them will get on your nerves if you have to live with them day in and day out. Also, that while a little Dumb Dora who rolls her eyes at you and asks you artless questions when she is eighteen will be a fool who will bore you to tears when she is forty-eight.

Don't forget that you pick out your wife yourself. She represents your taste and judgment in women, and if you make a mistake, blame your own lack of intelligence, not her. For every girl tips a man off before marriage to just the sort of wife she is going to make.

If he has intelligence enough to be let out without a keeper, he should know that the thin-faced, nervous, neurotic girl is going to make a nagger; that the bossy girl is going to henpeck her husband out of his life, and that the daily hint from Paris will keep the man who has to pay her bills with his nose to the grindstone. Nor does a man have to be a Sherlock Holmes to be able to deduce that the sweet-tempered, good-natured, unselfish girl will be mighty easy to live with, even if she is not so much to look at.

Don't marry out of your class. The happiest marriages are those in which the husband and wife are near the same age and have been brought up in the same school of thought in religion and politics and raised on the same kind of pie. Congeniality of taste is the strongest bond between two people. The men and women of whom we never weary are those who enjoy doing the things we like to do, whether it is playing golf, or reforming things, or listening to the radio, and as long as a man and his wife ride the same hobby-horse they are never on their way to the divorce court.

Don't cut out all the love-making as soon as you are married. Matrimony does not cause a woman to shred her sweet tooth, even if she does cut her wisdom teeth on her wedding ring. Don't take it for granted that your wife knows that you still love her and that you think she is the greatest little manager, and the best looker in the world, even if you never tell her so, or pay her a compliment.

Few women are mind readers or possess the gift of clairvoyance, and when their husbands neglect them they are likely to think that it is because they have ceased to care for them. There is nothing more pathetic than that there are thousands of women breaking their hearts with longing for their husbands to say to them the words they are too stupid and stingy to say.

Show your wife appreciation. Compliment her upon her thrift when she saves your money. Give her the glad hand for the way she manages your home. Don't gobble down the dinner she has spent hours in preparing for you without giving her a word of thanks for her labor. Remember that you are your wife's audience to which she is always playing and that she likes to have a few words of approbation for good work from you, just as much as you do from your employer, or from the men with whom you are associated in your business or profession.

Don't marry unless you are willing to give your wife as liberal an allowance as you can possibly afford for her own personal use. Forbably before marriage she got a fat salary for her labor. Don't make the wife job any more unattractive than it is by making it the only job in which an intelligent, educated woman has to work for her board and clothes and then have them given grudgingly to her. Every wife earns more than she ever gets by her labor. Don't force her to corkscrew every dime out of you, penny by penny. If you are a tightwad, be a bachelor.

Finally, don't neglect the little courtesies, the little attentions, little amenities of life, just because you are married. Treat your wife as if she were a baby, even if she is married to you. Show her tenderness and appreciation and that you are really trying to make her happy and she will overlook all your sins of omission and commission and love you still.

Japanese Liner Takes Many On Orient Tours

Korea Maru Sails To-day With All Tourist Accommodation Taken

Victoria Party Will Make Seven-week Tour of China and Japan Before Returning

The sailing this afternoon of the Japanese liner Korea Maru to the Orient was a gala affair for on board was a full list of passengers, all intent on seeing Japan and China for the first time, and noisily happy as the big ship pulled out from the Ogden Point piers and backed away to turn her prow in the direction of Race Rocks and the open Pacific. The tourist accommodation on the ship was taxed to capacity, there being parties from Victoria, Chicago and Oregon aboard, composed mostly of young people, students, teachers, nurses, doctors and lawyers who will tour the Far East this summer under the guidance of professors and other leaders.

MRS. HAROLD PALMER

The Victoria party aboard is under the leadership of Mrs. Harold Palmer of this city. She has in her group Miss Marjorie E. Menton, Miss Annie G. Stewart and Miss Eleanor Gibbs of Vancouver, Mrs. Alice Drury, Miss Louise N. Sylvester, Miss Jean McDonald and Miss Christine M. McKinnon of Victoria. They will remain with the Korea throughout Japan and China and will return here aboard the same ship on August 27.

ATTRACTIVE TOUR

The itinerary which Mrs. Palmer has prepared for the tour in the Orient is most attractive and will enable the tourists to make the most of their stay in the picturesque lands across the Pacific. While the Korea Maru is docked at various ports the party will take side trips into the interior of Japan visiting famous shrines and seeing the sacred mountain of Fuji, age-old tea houses, alluring little curio shops where silks and ivories may be purchased, and generally studying the habits and customs of the diminutive people who live in the land of the Mikado and the cherry blossom. The centuries-old Daibutsu, or bronze Buddah at Kamakura will be visited and trips will be made through the rice fields and to the tiny farms of the country districts.

In China Mrs. Palmer will lead her party to Shanghai and Hongkong by way of the far-famed Sea of Japan. Many side trips will be taken in this land of teaming millions, and the return trip will be commenced from Hongkong after a visit to Canton. Calls will again be made in ports along the coast before the ship sets out across the Pacific to Victoria where the epochal voyage will end in seven weeks' time.

MANY BOARD HERE

Altogether forty passengers boarded the Korea here this afternoon when she docked from Seattle shortly before 4 o'clock. The Oregon and Chicago parties embarked on the ship in Seattle this morning before she sailed at 11 o'clock. Several of the passengers boarding here arrived from Vancouver this morning and this afternoon, and transferred immediately to Ogden Point. Among those who joined the liner in Victoria were Miss Mary Chase and D. de Witt Pelton, New York City, bound on a holiday and sightseeing trip of China and Japan; P. Malleney and N. Brinsmade also of New York City; William Bay, bound for Shanghai and Mrs. E. Heseltine and two daughters, Miss E. B. and Miss A. R., who will leave the ship at Yokohama, and from there procced inland through Japan.

Around the Docks

To load 500,000 feet of lumber here for Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers, the Canadian National freighter Canadian Importer will dock at the Ogden Point Piers on Monday, the local C.N. freight office was advised this morning. The Importer is now loading at Mainland ports.

* * *

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Norah has arrived from the West Coast of Vancouver Island and before sailing again from Victoria on Friday night at 11 o'clock will call at Vancouver to discharge and load freight.

* * *

Bound for Victoria and Vancouver with passengers and cargo, the Pacific Steamship Company's liner Ruth Alexander is now steaming up the Coast from California ports. She left San Francisco yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock and is expected here to-morrow night.

* * *

The freighter Siberian Prince, which ran aground on Bentinck Island several years ago, will return to Victoria towards the end of the month and will load lumber in Brentwood Bay, King Brothers, local shipping agents, have been advised.

* * *

Setting out to create a record down the coast from Prince Rupert to Vancouver, the new Canadian National steamer Princess Henry left the northern port this morning and is due in Vancouver tomorrow morning. She will sail again for the north from Vancouver to-morrow night on her second trip to Skagway.

* * *

From United Kingdom ports by way of the Panama Canal and California, the Donaldson freighter Sulairia is expected here towards the end of the week with cargo for discharge here. She is now at California ports.

* * *

Bringing an excursion party from Tacoma, the steamer Princess Patricia arrived in the inner harbor shortly after noon to-day with several hundred people aboard. She left on the return trip to the Puget Sound port late this afternoon.

* * *

Both inbound from the Philippine Islands, China and Japan, two ships will dock here this week. The liner President Lincoln is expected Friday evening and the Empress of Asia on Saturday morning. Both ships have large passenger lists and fair cargoes.

BARQUE NOW LOADING AT BARNET

picturesque old Finnish barque, which was anchored in the Royal Roads last week and which is now loading 2,500,000 feet of lumber at Barnet for South Africa. She will be at the mainland port for about thirty days before proceeding to sea.

TO LAY KEEL OF HUGE NEW SHIP SHORTLY

United States Lines to Build Two 30,000-Ton Liners For Atlantic Service

The keel for the first of the two 30,000-ton liners to operate with the Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines' fleet, will be laid at the plant of the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, New Jersey, about December 1, it is announced at the offices of the company at New York. The keel for the second vessel, the two largest United States ships ever to be constructed in the United States, will be laid three months later.

Paul W. Chapman, president of the United States Lines, signed the contract for these two first class ships on May 24.

The two ships will be launched during the early part of 1932. When they go down the ways they will be ninety per cent complete, all the propulsion machinery having been installed. The vessels are finished in the basin in the yard, and the first will be ready for delivery in July and the second in November, 1932.

These liners, which will cost approximately $31,000,000, will be the first of several comprising a total construction expenditure of about $90,000,000 for the next few years by the United States Lines. The new ships will have a speed in excess of twenty knots, and will operate on the New York, Cherbourg and Southampton run with the Leviathan until the two larger liners, plans for which are in the hands of the Shipping Board, will be constructed.

When these two monster ships have been launched, the 30,000-ton vessels will be put on the New York-Hamburg run. These vessels will be 705 feet long with a beam of eighty-six feet, and a gross tonnage of approximately 31,000. They will be the largest vessels ever to be built in the United States for passenger service. The largest United States built passenger liner in operation at the present time is 652 feet eleven inches long with a gross tonnage of 21,000.

TRADING SHIP PASSES PORT ON WAY NORTH

Baychimo Proceeding Along West Coast of Island Bound For Arctic Posts

Bound for Dutch Harbor, Herschel Island, Point Barrow and numerous little lonely trading posts along the shores of the Arctic Ocean, the Hudson Bay Company's small trading ship Baychimo steamed past Race Rocks yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, having left Vancouver four hours earlier with passengers and cargo for the lonely outposts of civilization along the top of the world. The Baychimo, with the veteran captain Sid Cornwall on the bridge, will proceed along the West Coast of Vancouver Island and will then put out into the north Pacific and head for Dutch Harbor, the first port of call in the north. This morning the Baychimo reported herself to the Gonzales Wireless Station as off Carmanah.

The gallant little ship, with the same skipper, has seen many adventures on the Pacific. First she came to participate in the more or less disastrous Siberian adventure of the Hudson's Bay Co., in which vast quantities of stocks, strings of trading posts, and fleets of small vessels were required. But after the thing had been proved feasible, and the company was about to reap the benefits of its foresight, the Sovet took a hand, and the Hudson's Bay Co. withdrew.

Since then the ship has been the regular carrier of the main supplies of the Hudson's Bay Co. Western Arctic posts.

All passengers who left yesterday were company people.

Mrs. Storgerson, a daughter of Captain Karl Klengenberg, is returning to the north to join her husband, who first went into the Arctic with Stefanson's expedition. Accompanying her is Mrs. Iky Bolt, another daughter of Captain Klengebberg, and her husband. Miss Margaret Seymour, daughter of the manager of a post near Bernard Harbor, is returning home after nearly a year here.

Fred Jacobson, the flying trapper, is also going home He came out from Inman River early this spring, to have his teeth fixed in Vancouver. He drove 800 miles by dog team, leaving Inman River April 2. The journey by dog team took him to Aklavik, and he then took to the air and flew to the Yukon, proceeding thence by White Pass & Yukon route and Canadian Pacific Railway coast steamers to Vancouver.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.
